Jury Finds Burke Guilty Of 6 Charges

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Former Antioch mayoral candidate, Philip Burke, was found guilty of six counts of deceptive practices in the Lake County Circuit Court on May 7.

Burke had been accused of writing six checks, five to the Piggly Wiggly Food Store in Antioch amounting to a total of $210 and one to Triple A Auto Parts in the amount of $119.94, without funds in his account. The checks were written in early March of 1985.

According to Asst. States Atty. Dave DeRose, the Piggly Wiggly store tried to contact Burke numerous times without success. When the Triple A Auto Parts Store contacted him, Burke told the owner that he would just have "to do what you have to do," DeRose said.

Lt. Tom Fisher of the Antioch Police Dept. talked to Burke several times and said that Burke finally just swore at him.

In mid-April of 1985, Burke disappeared from town and made no attempt to make good on the bad checks. The Antioch Police Dept. put out a warrant for his arrest.

According to Fisher, the Antioch Police had information that Burke was living with a girl in Chicago. A tip that came in late December resulted in Antioch calling the Chicago Police Dept. with an address where they believed Burke could be found. On Jan. 1, 1986, the Chicago Police arrested Burke.

After the arrest, Burke's girlfriend mailed money to the stores in an attempt to clear the matter up. The states attorney's office decided to continue prosecution.

The trial ran for three days in the courtroom of Judge John Hughes. On May 7, the jury retired, considered the case for a half an hour, and returned with a verdict of guilty on all six charges. Burke will be sentenced on June 4. He could receive as much as one to three years in the penitentiary or as little as probation.

In 1981, Burke ran for mayor of Antioch. During that campaign, he promised to "bring the village back under the control of its citizens." He said that he would broaden the tax base through new land annexations. The voters were unimpressed, giving him only eight votes out of a total of 1536 cast.

Health Dept. To Canvass Antioch

During the week of May 19-23, Lake County Health Dept. animal wardens will be canvassing door-to-door in the Lotus Woods area of Antioch Twp. to check for rabies vaccination and Lake County Registration Tags on dogs and cats.

During canvassing, violators will be issued tickets at $15 per violation. Violations include: no current rabies vaccination; no Lake County rabies registration tags; and an animal running at large, off the owner's property.

The Lake County Rabies Control ordinance requires that all dogs and cats have attached to their collar a Lake County rabies tag as proof of their vaccination status. The tags are available from the health department and certain municipalities upon presentation of the vaccination certificate (obtained from the veterinarian) with the required fee. Pets must be registered within 21 days of vaccination.

The purpose of the tags is to provide proof of vaccination if the animal bites or if the animal is bitten by a rabid animal. Tags are also useful in tracing ownership if the pet is lost. A file of all registered dogs and cats is kept by the health department, cross referenced by the animal owner's last name and Lake County Tag number, to assist residents in need of such information.

For additional information on rabies registration tags and rabies, call the Lake County Health Dept. rabies control program at (312) 360-6424 or (312) 526-5336.

ACHS, GCHS Students Receive Scholarships

The Lake Villa Community Consolidated Scholarship Fund Dist. 41 is announcing that area students have been selected to receive the 1986 scholarship awards.

Jean Kim, Lindenhurst resident and Antioch High School student, has been chosen to receive a four-year scholarship of $500 for each of the four years.

Another Lindenhurst resident, Jennifer Smith has been named to receive a one time $500 scholarship. She is a senior at Grayslake High School.

Denis Maple of Lake Villa, has been named to receive the Gina Allen Memorial Scholarship. She will receive $500 to continue her education. Maple attends Antioch High School.

Elizabeth Trychta, Antioch High School senior and Lake Villa resident, will be receiving a one time scholarship of $500.

Stacey Anderson from Antioch High School will be receiving a one time vocational scholarship of $500. This scholarship is the First American Bank of Lake County Scholarship.

These students were selected as recipients based on their academic records for the past four years, various test scores and their class rank. The scholarships are to be used to help defray the costs of the students' continuing education.

The scholarship committee was especially pleased this year to be able to award both a four-year scholarship and a vocational scholarship.

This was due to the tremendous response the community gave to the fund raising efforts as well as donations from the area businesses.

First American Bank of Lake County has received the special distinction of having a scholarship named in their honor for their ongoing support of the scholarship fund.

The scholarship fund has grown rapidly since its inception three years ago. With continued growth the scholarship fund will be able to award a greater number of scholarships in the future.

Contributions to the scholarship fund may be made by sending donations to The Dist. 41 Scholarship Fund, Administrative Office, 304 E. Grand Ave. Lake Villa, Ill. 60046.

These students will be receiving their awards at their individual high school ceremonies. Antioch High School will have its on May 22, at 2:30 p.m. and Grayslake students will have theirs on May 28, at 7:30 p.m.

Holtz Tells How To Cut Tax Bills

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Real estate tax bills have been sent out and, according to Antioch Twp. Assessor, R.G. "Bud" Holtz, residents of the Antioch area can expect to see an increase over last year's bill.

Tax rates went up overall by about 64 cents per $100 of assessed valuation with the big increases coming from Lake County, Antioch Community High School, and the Antioch Twp. Library District.

For a home with a market value of $70,000, the total increase works out to about $150 more than last year.

Holtz has served as the assessor of Antioch Township since January of 1974. He is a Certified Illinois Assessing Official (CIAO) and has continued his education on the subject since taking office 12 years ago.

One of the things that irritates Holtz is that homeowners frequently do not take advantage of all the exemptions that are available to them. "People could save themselves some money if they took advantage of all the exemptions that the law provides for," Holtz said.

As an example, he cited the homestead exemption, which is available to anyone who is living in their own home. "All people have to do is apply for this exemption at the assessor's office and they get $3,500 exempted from their assessed valuation. Senior citizens who apply every year can get an additional $2,000 exempted," Holtz said.

Homeowners who make improvements to their home can get a four-year homestead improvement exemption for the entire assessed value of the improvement, up to a maximum of $30,000.

Holtz is particularly busy right now as this is the year for Antioch Township's quadrennial reassessment. All property in the township must be reassessed this year.

To help carry out the duties of his office, Holtz has a part-time man in the field and two women in the office. One of the women is a CIAO and the other is in training for her certification. "I'm a great believer in education," Holtz said; "the more you know about your work, the better you can do your job."

For those who had the misguided notion that the assessor's job is to squeeze as much out of the homeowner in taxes as possible, see Bud Holtz. He will happily tell you how to pay less.

ACHS Plans Spring Recital

Receive Scholarships

The Penwasciz Health Careers Program at Condell Memorial Hospital concluded another successful year with the presentation of scholarships to seven graduating high school seniors during its annual capping and graduation ceremony.

Sponsored by the hospital, the Penwasciz program offers an opportunity for area high school girls and boys to experience a variety of careers in the health care field through education and participation. The name "Penwasciz" originated by combining the names of pen, watch and scissors, the three items always carried by a nurse.

Holly Hall and Archa Mehta, both of Libertyville, received the Condell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Scholarships, while Laura Muno, of Libertyville, was awarded the medical staff's Gift of Appreciation.

Recipients of the Condell Memorial Hospital Scholarship were Kathy Olson and Karmyn Wusenich, both of Libertyville, and Jenny Morris, of Round Lake.

Vince Bendinelli, of Grayslake, not only received the first year cap and pin and graduating senior certificate, but he also was awarded the Dr. Jac Bellis Scholarship.

First year Penwasciz participants received caps and pins during the special capping ceremony. They were Sunil Agnani, Kristan Boyle, Chrissie Brown, Suzanne Griffin, Vicki McInay, Erin Moran, Kim Morgan, Margaret O'Brien, Lorraine Perez, Dana Ramsey, Beth Seal, Jim Snell, Ched Vugrincic and Claire West, all of Libertyville.

Other Penwasciz receiving caps and pins were Karen Becker, Jayne Chase, Chris Monroe, Karen Peters and Kim Ureche, all of Mundelein; Mario Greco, of Palatine; Chris Kendzioriski, of Ingleside; Cindy Sanchez, of Round Lake Beach; and Amit Kumar, of Lake Forest.

Honored for their third year in Penwasciz were Jennifer Ary, of Gurnee; Karen Balmes, Jenny Bloom and Kelly Medick, all of Libertyville; Anne Brophy, of Ingleside; and Tony Pieske and Eddie Sullivan, both of Mundelein.

Certificates were also presented to all the graduating seniors, including the scholarship recipients.

Holly Hall was named president of the Penwasciz for 1986-87.

Biggest Fish Story Ever; Friday Night Fish Frys

by GLORIA DAVIS

Eating fish on Friday reportedly started when religious factions made it a sin to eat meat on Friday. Soon, people who had no religious reason to do so, got in the habit of designating Friday, "Fish Day."

Today, many restaurant's report that their Friday evening dinner hour often draws bigger crowds than the traditional Saturday night out or Sunday afternoon feast.

Many people prefer dining out on Fridays just to start the weekend off or because they don't work the next day, compared to going out on a Saturday evening when they have to rise early on Sunday for church.

Friday dinner specials are also usually very reasonably priced.

Friday "all you can eat" fish frys are probably the most popular and in the long run, the biggest money makers for restaurants that have them.

A supervisor from the nation's biggest fast food fish chain, Long John Silver's, reports that an "all you can eat" offer brings an increase in customers who feel they are getting more for their money.

What really happens is that, taking children who pick, women who nibble, and people who are filled-up by the normal generous portions, into consideration, even when adding the high school guys who "pig out" and other big eaters, it all averages out to one extra piece of fish per customer in a promotion that draws three times as many of them.

In the Lakeland area, most restaurants have a Friday fish special, just as everyone is now featuring Sunday brunch.

At Zackery's in the Gurnee Holiday Inn, one can get a myriad of fish choices from the seafood buffet that features crab legs, serving from 5 to 9 p.m.

B.L. Plenty's in Grayslake adds ribs to its seafood buffet for non-fish lovers, available from 4:30 to 10 p.m.

The Rustic Manor in Gurnee has a fish fry and the Country House in Antioch has a fish and shrimp fry.

For those with more of a gourmet palate, Memories' Porch Restaurant in Trevor serves whiting and cod on its come back for more menu. They also serve an out of this world walleye filet topped with a lemon pecan sauce.

The salmon topped with a special sauce, served at the Red Geranium in Lake Geneva and at Sterbenz Little Acres outside of Antioch are real Friday taste pleasers, one that leaves the diner satisfied but not stuffed to the (pardon the pun) gills.

The oyster bar and shrimp cocktails served on the deck that overlook a lake are also Little Acres' favorites.

Mad Dan's in Twin Lakes has long been famous for its outstanding food served for reasonable prices. This continues on Friday especially with the crab legs and deviled crab that are featured items.

Many lower priced area restaurants serve delicious clam chowder every Friday.

The Gilead House in Wilmot trims its perch fry special by preceeding it with homemade breads and Wisconsin cheese spreads.

The long lines in front of the Fairview Restaurant in Twin Lakes on Fridays is a testation, not only to the fish fry, but to the delicious potato pancakes topped with applesauce that are always on the menu.

The "Door County Fish Boil" served weekly, starting at 5 p.m. at Olde Fitzgerald's in Twin Lakes is a picturesque and palate pleasing experience.

Award Musicians

Slate Horse Show

Irene Hahn, 12 year old violinist from Libertyville, won first prize in the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra's Sixth Annual Fuqua Memorial Young Artist's Competition, with the playing of Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole."

Exceptional talent must run in the family because her sister, Sarah, is a previous first prize winner in the Fuqua Memorial Competition.

There must be something in the atmosphere of Libertyville that stimulates fine musicians because all three winners are from that suburb.

The second place winner was Mary Ann Huang, a 15 year old sophomore at Libertyville High School. The young pianist played Mozart's "Piano Concerto No. 19," winning a difficult decision by the judges over the third place winner, Gitta Sorenson, 17, a senior at Libertyville High School.

Sorenson, who began cello at age five in the first year of Waukegan School Dist.'s Suzuki program, played the Haydn "Cello Concerto in C" to win her award.

Slate Horse Show

The Second Annual Lake County 4-H Benefit Horse Show will be held at 8:30 a.m., on Sunday, June 8, at Big-Z Riding Club in Zion.

This event is being co-sponsored by the Lake County Mounted Posse. The entry fee is $4 per class. A first place trophy and five ribbons will be awarded in each class.

For a show bill, or for further information, call (312) 249-3683 or (312) 223-8627.

'Fool' Set For Opening

"Fool For Love" is Stage Two's second show of the 1986 season. The Obie-Award-winning play, written by Sam Shepard, will have its area premiere on Thursday, May 15. Stage Two is a paid-non equity ensemble, which performs at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

The play is directed by Stage Two's artistic director, John Reinhardt.

"Fool For Love" features Cynthia Armstrong as May and Jim Poole as Eddie. Armstrong, who lives in Oak Park, recently appeared in "Tale Of Two Cities," which won two Jeff Citation

Awards, and whose credits include "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "The Lion In Winter."

"Fool For Love" runs through May 25. Ticket prices are $7 for adults, $4 for seniors. Reservations can be made by calling (312) 662-4071.

Blood Drive At Lakehurst

Lakehurst Mall, in conjunction with the American Red Cross, will sponsor a blood drive Saturday, May 18, from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. The blood drive will be held in the community room of the mall, located at 199

Lakehurst Rd. in Waukegan. Healthy individuals between the ages of 17 and 66, weighing at least 110 pounds are encouraged to donate. The Red Cross needs to collect 1,700 units of blood each week to meet the needs of over 120 hospitals and blood banks served in the northeastern Illinois area.

For more information, or to schedule a blood donor appointment, please call the Red Cross at (312) 949-1000.

English Folk-Singer To Perform

Steve Turner, one of England's finest folk performers, will return to the David Adler Cultural Center for two shows, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 17.

He plays traditional songs from his homeland as well as from Newfoundland, Scotland, Canada and the United States, and Turner's array of instruments is equally wide ranging: guitar, mandola, concertina, mandolin and bouzouki.

Opening both shows will be Adler favorites Judy Morkrid and Bonnie Biehl, whose songs are traditional American folk music, whose instruments are guitar and autoharp, and whose love of homemade music is evident.

Admission is $4.50 for adults, $4 for members, $2 for senior citizens and children six-12, and free for children under six.

The David Adler Cultural Center, 1700 N. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville, is a non-profit organization. For information, call (312) 367-0707.

Kids Preview Orchestra's Annual Spring Concert

Exciting things are happening this spring as the Chain O'Lakes Orchestra practices for its annual spring concert to be held on June 22, at 2:30 p.m., at Grant High School in Fox Lake.

A rehearsal was attended by the Glitter Girls Club of Round Lake, a group of approximately 13 little girls who are being taught to involve themselves in the community and express themselves creatively.

Expect to see more of the Chain O'Lakes Orchestra members as they "become involved" in their communities this spring. Members have recently performed at their local AARP meeting, at the Lakeland Apartments in Fox Lake, at the Northshore Society of the Performing Arts, and at the Fox Lake Baptist Church.

On May 21 a string trio, representing the orchestra, will be playing for the Northshore Society of the Performing Arts.

On June 8 a number of the Chain O'Lakes ensembles will participate in the Lakehurst Art Festival. The program will be presented at 1 p.m. and again at 2 p.m.

Anyone interested in knowing more about the Glitter Girls Club can call Karen Nowak at (312)546-4561.

Those interested in knowing more about the Lakehurst Festival Program or the annual spring concert can call Georgia Cobb at (312)587-9171. Both performances are free to the public. The annual spring concert is partially funded by a grant from the Waukegan Area Arts Council.

LaRouches Deal Adlai Murky Political Hand

by JOHN STEINKE
(Political Columnist)

Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr. is the unorthodox politician whose followers are worrying the Democratic Party because they won upset victories in Illinois' March 18 primary.

Two members of LaRouche's radical organization won the Democratic Party's nominations for two statewide offices. Mark Fairchild was nominated for lieutenant governor and Janice Hart was nominated for secretary of state.

Their victories prompted Adlai E. Stevenson III, who won the primary for governor, to proclaim that he would not run on the same ticket with them because of their extreme views.

Stevenson has characterized Fairchild and Hart as "Neo-Nazis." Under Illinois statute, a vote for a gubernatorial candidate automatically is a vote for his running mate in the Nov. 4 general election.

So a Stevenson victory as a Democrat would have made Fairchild lieutenant governor, first in line to become governor if Stevenson vacated the office.

Last month, Stevenson resigned as the Democratic candidate for governor in an attempt to run as an independent in the November election. It was a move to rid himself of his two LaRouche running mates.

Stevenson has filed suit in federal court challenging a state election board's rule that requires independents in the November contest to have filed papers declaring their candidacies by last Dec. 16.

If Stevenson's legal suit is unsuccessful, he has the option to field an entire third-party ticket. The filing date for third-parties is August 4.

Stevenson, a former U.S. senator, is making a second attempt to unseat Republican Gov. James R. Thompson. In 1982, he lost to Thompson by 5,074 votes out of 3.6 million ballots cast in the contest.

With popular U.S. Sen. Alan J. Dixon leading the Democratic slate, it was expected that Stevenson would defeat Thompson in a rematch.

The Stevenson withdrawal from the party ticket leaves Fairchild without a running mate. It is up to the Democratic State Central Committee to fill that spot.

Brownie Troop 1366 is in the news again. On May 2 and 3 the first and second grade Brownies of Troop 1366 had their overnighter at the Scout house in Antioch. On Friday evening, the leaders and girls shopped for food to be consumed over the weekend. After shopping, the girls gathered kindling for a fire. Once the fireplace was going they had ice cream sundaes while working on a solar energy project as part of the Green and Growing patch. The evening continued with popcorn and juice while watching movies. The first girl to fall asleep was Jamie Brausam. After a Saturday morning breakfast from McDonalds, the girls worked on a Mother's Day craft, practiced for the Fly-Up ceremony, finished their badge work, had pizza for lunch and went home. Those Brownies who earned their Overnighter patch were: Sandy Benes, Jamie Brausam, Kelley Brausam, Kendra Charts, Tara Christopoulos, Kellie Dixon, Kristen Franzen, Cynthia Jones, Jennifer Lentine, Lois Morreale, Tammy Mazzuca, Lisa Priller, Rebecca Sheldon and Sandra Webel. Adults participating were: leader, Sue Cramer; co-leader, Chris Priller; and first aider, Marge Benes.

Birthday wishes were left out of last week's column and I apologize for that, but my column was too lengthy and something had to go. New computers have been added to Grass Lake School, thanks to the Illinois State Board of Education and the use of ECIA Chapter II funds. The school has received $1,946.20 and that has been used to purchase new equipment and materials. Two Apple computers and accompanying software have been purchased. One of the computers is being used by the intermediate grades and the other is being used by the junior high students.

The school had a special thank you to Judy Kelly in the last newsletter for donation of a graduation cap and gown to add to the supply. Remember while spring cleaning, if you find a graduation gown in your closet and don't know what to do with it, please give it to the school for future use.

This is the fourth quarter of the school year. The junior high activity program has added new electives for the school. Grass Lake is offering will and prophecy, classical music, tennis, library-video aides, junior high music, knitting-crocheting, primary aides, intermediate aides, calligraphy-sign painting, typing, newspaper, puppet workshop, chess-checkers and sculpture.

The 4-H office is looking for fair superintendents for many areas. If you are interested in helping out at the Lake County Fair, contact the Lake County Extension Office at (312) 223-8627, and ask for Norma Schott. She will let you know more about the program and where your help is needed. The 4-H mini-fair will take place June 27 and 28. All entries are due in the 4-H office by May 30. If you are doing food demonstrations, general demonstrations, cats, rockets, small animals, rocket launching, birds, fish or bike rodeo, be sure you are entered by May 30. If you didn't get your 4-H newsletter, contact your leader for more information.

Cub Scout Pack 80 had three boys representing them at the district's Pinewood Derby held April 18 at Round Lake High School. The boys who qualified at the local Pinewood Derby were eligible to participate. Congratulations to Brad Priller, Richie Castillo and James Mazzuca. Brad and Richie received a blue ribbon for winning their first heat of the competition. Each received a participation ribbon. Congratulations to Brad Priller and Jeff Freshman who each won a fishing pole for selling the most spaghetti dinner tickets. There will be a bike rodeo sponsored by the pack on Tuesday, May 20 at Grass Lake School parking lot at 6:30 p.m. This event is for all Scouts and for those new Scouts coming up, or those who are interested in being Scouts. There will be safety checks of the bikes and a course of obstacles to overcome. Be sure to mark your calendar.

Congratulations to Ms. Glessnor, math coach and her math team, David Clauson, Cathy Cramer, Mark Cole, Jenny Harris and Ken Mattson. They competed last week at Antioch Community High School and received fifth place. From all indications, the scores were really close. Ms. Glessnor deserves a round of applause for the extra time devoted to these kids for this project. The team met twice a week before school to get ready for this competition. Congratulations to you all on a job well done.

I was going to keep my own birthday quiet, but Annie Mae had to spill the beans" in her column last week. A special thank you to everyone for making it a night to remember. That is, if my memory doesn't start to fail me after 40.

Grass Lake News

ning tickets away! They were so fast in putting in the arrow, by the time I got to the corner with my camera, they were gone.

May 9 was an exciting evening for the seventh and eighth graders at Grass Lake School. It was the night of the eighth grade dance, the special dance where everyone dresses in their finest. Pizza was served, the music played, and the gym was decorated in pastel spring colors. Parents were eager to take pictures and the students were gracious enough to get into a large group for a class photo. The last will and testament was read as follows: "We, the Class of '86, being of insane minds and unsound bodies leave the following to the Class of '87 — We, Peter Houle and Chris Lehner, leave to Jeff Henning our amazing ability to charm the girls with our good looks and our awesome snowmobiles. We, Stacey Zbylut and Teresa Clifford, leave to Shelley Brausam, our ability to be friends with everyone. We, Michele Skrypt and Heather Flood, leave to Deanna Olenick, our ability to be "true blue" friends to people, without ever fighting. We, Wayne Olson and Ricky Starr, leave our good grades and our muscles to Mike Jorudd and Keith Ritzert. We, Chris Varno and Eric Wimmer, leave to Mike Wix, our lockers and a bucket of soap and water. We, Mike Priller and Chris Gillihan, leave to Chuck Haling, our detentions and our honor roll brains. We, Joe Rohde and Brian Fehrenbacher, leave to Ericka Diehl our charcoal grill and starter fluid. We, Bill Frohmeier and David Clauson, leave to Mr. Clark and Ray Lauer, our petite figures and damaged pancreases. I, Jeff Rey, leave to son, leave to Danny Romanski, my terrific athletic ability.

I, Jenny Harris, leave to Jeana Nord my baseball talent and one of my hats, the blue one. We, Amy Glasgow and Cathy Cramer, leave to Nicole Gannon our books and popularity. We, Jacque Sherwood and Delfina Carlin, leave to Tiffany Christopoulos our height, our loud voices, and our figures. We, Randi Terry and Christina Aker, leave our ability to keep quiet and be smart when necessary to the Class of '87.

We, Mark Parker and David Wechselberger, leave to Jason Nolan our skilled motorcycle riding techniques and our ability to stay out of trouble. We, Mike and Carl Campbell, leave to Jason Kitto our Fruit of the Loom award. We, Jenny Lehmann and Tracy Podock, leave to Corky Madden our baseball mitts. We, Richie Cheterbok and Karl Johnnesen, leave to Aaron Martin our handsome physiques and our awesome sunglasses. I, Jill Hines, leave to Theresa Hoepfner my blonde hair and great times at Grass Lake School. I, Carrie DeFalco, leave my quiet ways and secret supply of gum to Adam Holtzinger and Jenny Vandrush."

The weather was perfect; the company was great. Who could have asked for anything more for the Class of '86's last dance at Grass Lake School? They will be going on their class trip May 27-29. And then the big day, graduation on May 30, at 7:30 p.m.

There will be an awards program at Grass Lake School for grades one through five, on May 23 at 2 p.m. Be sure you get your tickets for the PTO dinner dance to be held on Friday, May 16 at Harbor Ridge

Ruling Appealed

Anticipated ground-breaking this fall of a new tertiary care, high tech hospital in North Chicago has been delayed at least 60 days by an appeal of the decision of the state agency voting a certificate of need.

The appeal process was set in motion by 12 to 11 vote of the Kane-Lake-McHenry Health Services Agency.

The regional HSA took issue with a 7 to 2 decision by the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board to allow the CON requested by Chicago Medical School which is planning the new facility in conjunction with Humana Inc., of Louisville, Ky.

Jack Taft of St. Charles, chairman of the HSA group, broke a tie vote.

The appeal process provides for a 30-day filing deadline and 30 day period in which to conduct a hearing.

CMS officials had hoped to break ground by Oct. 1. They said they anticipated the HSA appeal.

Collectors Awaiting World Fair Of Stamps

One of the oldest and most popular hobbies in the Lakeland area and the nation—stamp collecting—will be in the spotlight at AMERIPEX.

This is the world's fair of stamps, the first such event held in the United States since 1976 scheduled from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily May 22 to June 1 at O'Hare Expo.

AMERIPEX is officially designated at a world's fair by the U.S. Dept. of Commerce and is sanctioned by the Federation Internationale de Philatelie (FIP).

A Lake County resident is on the committee planning the even expected to attract 150,000 persons. He is Stephen Neulander of Deerfield.

Neulander is a skilled hot air balloonist whose stamp collecting activities relate to balloon stamps and mail-carrying balloon flights.

All Rosemont hotels have been almost completely booked for the period of AMERIPEX. It is the largest booking for a single event in the history of the Hyatt Regency O'Hare Hotel.

AMERIPEX will have on exhibit some of the world's finest stamp collections from approximately 40 countries. There will be 4,000 "frames", each holding 16 pages of material, for a total of 64,000 individual pages of display material. It is estimated that if an individual wanted to look at every page, approximately 5 seconds could be spent at each page and the visitor would have walked 3.2 miles.

Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain is sending material from the Royal Collection in the personal care of the Keeper of the Royal Collection.

Prince Rainer, of Monaco is sending special items from his collection for exhibit as well.

The rarest, most expensive stamp in the world, the famous British Guiana stamp, that sold for $935,000, will be exhibited.

The postal administrations of 128 countries will be officially represented at the show, making it a truly World's Fair of Stamps. Each country will sell their postage stamps and other philatelic material at face value.

U.S. Postal Service will occupy approximately 90,000 square feet, including special exhibits on the history of the posts in the United States, which will include early postal vehicles. These exhibits and a 34 projector multimedia presentation are being produced by the same organization that designed and built many of the exhibits in Disney's Epcot Center.

A special section of AMERIPEX and part of the post office exhibit will be devoted to special activities for children. Not only is anyone below the age of 18 admitted free, but there will be special kits of stamps and literature on stamp collecting given to youngsters.

Approximately 100 international or national stamp organizations will hold their annual meetings and conduct special programs at AMERIPEX.

'Different Walks'

Although the nation's 50 million working women represent 44 percent of the total labor force, in 1984 they accounted for 16 percent of all physicians and lawyers and six percent of engineers, five percent of machinists, three percent of mechanics and repairers, and one percent of plumbers, according to "Meeting the Challenges of the 80's," a publication of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Dept. of Labor.

Getting Rid Of The Drunks

Stiffer penalties and speedier justice in dealing with driving under the influence arrests, as mandated by the Illinois General Assembly, sent out impact ripples in all directions. Implementation of legal and procedural changes haven't been viewed with unbridled enthusiasm, but in the end our highways will be safer.

Members of the Lake County Board have been jockeying finances around to provide manpower and equipment to fund increased costs in processing and prosecuting DUI cases. Circuit Court Clerk Sally Coffelt has requested the hiring of 15 persons to handle increased paperwork. Approval is being sought for three additional associate circuit court judges, two for Lake County and one for McHenry County, partly to handle the increasing number of DUI cases.

Right now some local police chiefs are grumbling about a directive from Chief Circuit Court Judge William D. Block creating a DUI court in Waukegan. Judge Block's centralization of the DUI judicial process stems from the need to streamline administration and iron out glitches in the present system that sometimes reach what he termed "nightmarish" conditions because so much of the DUI case load now originates in the branch courts scattered about the county.

Coffelt reported that she paid out $40,000 in overtime in the traffic section of her office in the first three months of the year, part of it due to changes in the DUI statutes that went into effect Jan. 1.

Some County Board members believe that state legislators should provide for assessment of higher court costs to offset new financial burdens being placed on the system. Hopefully, efficiencies resulting from the new single purpose court will offset increased costs.

Without a doubt, municipalities are going to experience pinched police budgets to provide for increased travel and overtime costs associated with police officers testifying in Waukegan. Judge Block expects the new DUI court to be operational sometime in July or August.

There is an interesting sidelight to the legitimate concern about increased costs associated with administration of stiffer DUI law enforcement and prosecution. That is the fact that the public will respond as expected and that less people will be getting behind the wheel of a car when they are in no condition to drive. There already are indications that this, indeed, is happening. The catch is that we can't wait for this to happen. The drunks have to be taken off the highways now.

Trying For Equitable Aid

Illinois needs a predictable, reasonable and fair system of funding public schools. Republicans in the State Senate have formed a special task force with exactly that goal in mind. Sen. Minority Whip Jack Schaffer (R-McHenry County) has been named to the fact finding group and is the only member representing our locality.

Schaffer is right on target in calling the present school aid formula "a patchwork document that is inconsistent, unpredictable and, very often, illogical." School officials are the most vehement critics of the current formula, leveling most of the criticism on the fact that too much of a burden of funding public education is placed on the local real estate tax base, which they view as inconsistent with the 1970 Constitution.

One of the problems of funding public education in Illinois is that our state is such a diverse creature that it is almost impossible to devise a single system that satisfies the needs and is acceptable to the three basic constituencies—Cook County, the suburban collar counties and rural downstate. And not the least of the problem of legislators is that the system must have bi-partisan support. It is not infrequent that the politicians are at odds with the people. But that's political life in Illinois!

The special fact finding body will be operating with the imposing name of the Senate Republican School Aid Formula Rewrite Task Force. If the game senators don't faller under the weight of this title, they might come up with something useful. By tradition, the Democrats won't offer anything of substance, preferring to play the role of nay sayers. Last year's reform package was a good beginning, even if only illusionary. Overhauling the school aid formula might trigger establishment of a new look in public education that will produce an end product of which citizens can be proud at a price they consider fair and equitable.

Happy Hour

It's happy hour in Illinois.

Happy hour is that time just after work when bars ply their customers with two-for-one drinks and half-price specials. Most people know that the purpose of happy hour is to bring the customers in and get them comfortable enough to stay till closing. Those that do usually wind up with a hangover the morning after.

It is odd that first-year allocations of "Build Illinois" money became available just in time for our two merry bartenders, Gov. Jim Thompson and Lt. Gov. George Ryan, to travel around the state giving away money like two-for-one specials.

What a promotion it is: almost every village in Illinois will get a sip of what suddenly seems to be a bottomless vat of state money. Local officials love it. They order up a draft of state money and, as a chaser, get their picture taken with the governor.

Thompson assures everyone that there is plenty of money to satisfy this thirst and much, much more. Four years ago, he said the same thing until after the election was over.

Local officials had better enjoy the state drafts and the heady attention they are getting while they can. On the morning after the election, they are likely to find that the bar is closed.

Finding Lost Tots A Cinch With New Iron-On Labels

by BILL SCHROEDER

A former Lake County resident who spent her childhood in the Gages Lake-Wildwood area and Waukegan is earning a national reputation for helping lost children find their parents.

Lauri A. Johnson and her husband, Rom, have developed permanent, iron-on identification labels for children's clothing. The labels are made of a durable fabric with indelible ink that will withstand countless laundings.

The former Lauri Platt and her husband, both involved in personal product sales, got the idea for "Child Keep" and "Identifind" labels while trying to look after a four-year-old grandson with an advanced case of wanderlust. "We knew we couldn't tattoo him," laughed the California resident, "so we worked on coming up with something that would enable children to be returned to their parents."

As it has worked out, the patches also are invaluable for identifying elderly and mentally retarded people.

The labels can be ordered in packs of 24 for $5.50 or 36 for $8 by writing Mrs. Johnson, c/o Child Keep, P. O. Box 297, Vista, Calif. 92083, plus 52 cents for mailing. Since making money on the idea isn't the goal of the Johnsons, they have a standing offer to donate an order to anyone who can't afford the labels if they send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with necessary information.

The Johnsons report the Identifind labels are vital because in the three to seven age group, 68 percent don't know their home address; 86 percent don't know how to reach their mother during the day; 96 percent can't call their fathers at work and 75 percent of children questioned didn't know the phone number of an adult to call when their parents couldn't be reached.

So when little ones are lost, they're really lost. But not if the Johnsons can help it.

NEW FLAG—Lakeland Newspapers is indebted to Congressman Phil Crane for presentation of a new American flag. We're honored to have a flag which was flown over the Capitol on Flag Day in 1984. The flag will be flown with honor and appreciation. Thank you Congressman Crane.

COMMENDABLE—Cmdr. Larry Muckey and members of Lake Villa Post 4308 VFW are to be commended for their flag presentation project. Every month the post selects a worthy recipient of an American flag. Recipients can be from all walks of life, business or civic organizations. That means there are 12 more flags flying every year. Our congratulations!

CATCHY SLOGAN—Credit Charles A. "Chuck" Werth, Democratic candidate for sheriff of McHenry County, with coming up with the catchiest slogan of the 1986 election. "Chuck's Werth It" will be emblazoned on signs, buttons, literature, etc.

Werth is not a philosophic Democrat and at one time was considered on the inside track for the Republican nomination until party moguls turned him aside. "I'm basically a cop so it was easy to switch parties," commented Werth, who is police chief of Prairie Grove, a small community between Wauconda-Island Lake and Crystal Lake. He ran unopposed in the primary. Werth has been involved in law enforcement at various levels for 14 years.

NEIGHBORLINESS—Communities surrounding the huge central Lake County landfill operated on Rte. 83 by ARF Landfill Corp. are being invited to dispose of one dumpster gratis as part of spring clean up. ARF management extended the offer to Grayslake, Mundelein, Libertyville, the Round Lake area and Gurnee.

POLITICAL MOVE—Political observers are watching closely for any signs of organization of a Republicans for Hess movement as has been predicted. The theory is that sufficient GOP loyalists are disenchanted with party leadership and the county clerk candidate to be induced to crossover and vote for incumbent County Clerk Linda Hess, a Democrat, in the November election.

Sander Stagman, Democratic nominee for sheriff, flatly has stated that such a movement will develop. Stagman says he will be telling Republicans how to vote a split ticket to exploit GOP unhappiness. Republicans for Hess is one possibility to keep an eye on.

Diet Pill System Sweeping U.S.

Super Dream Pill Guaranteed Weight Loss

Eat Your Favorite Foods

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH — According to the latest review of customers' files, here's what some people are saying about the remarkable Dream Pill System for guaranteed weight loss:

"I lost 25 lbs. with a 30 day supply."

Mrs. J.N.S., Ft. Payne, Alabama

"Losing 1 lb. per day."

Mr. J.G., Pineville, Kentucky

"Your Dream Pill is working for me."

... ordering another supply."

Mrs. G.W., Fort Gay, West Virginia

"I have been on Dream Pill for one month and feel great...have lost 27 lbs."

Mr. A.D., Anadarko, Oklahoma

The System's Dream Pill combines the natural substances L-arginine and L-ornithine which can stimulate the body's production of growth hormone. Dr. Robert Harris, a specialist in nutritional medicine in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, was recently quoted as explaining: "Growth Hormone may be what's responsible for allowing teenagers to down thousands of calories in hamburgers and other foods and still be thin as a rail."

"Growth Hormone is present in people up through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and L-ornithine make the body 'think' it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat [their favorite foods] — and still be thin and wiry."

Life Extension Authors Confirm Results

Durk Pearson and Sandy Shaw, graduates of MIT and UCLA respectively, introduced these miracle substances to the public in their runaway best selling book, Life Extension. They discovered the weight-loss effects by accident. Sandy fell and broke her foot and started taking L-arginine because of its well-known healing qualities. Much to her amazement Sandy lost 25 pounds of fat and put on 5 pounds of firm-toned muscle in six weeks. According to Durk's calculations, the pill caused Sandy to lose 400 times as much fat as she would otherwise have lost — without dieting!

Lose Weight 24 Hours A Day

One beautiful thing about the Dream Pill System is the ease with which it works. The pounds melt away 24 hours a day. You wake up every morning, slimmer, happier and feeling younger. The best time to take the pills is just before you go to bed at night. That way, the pounds melt away even as you sleep. You wake up every morning, slimmer, happier and feeling younger!

The super Dream Pill System is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again. Naturally, individual weight loss results (like those above) may vary depending upon initial weight, metabolic differences and adherence to the Dream Pill System.

Pasta Without Sauce Makes Great Side Dish

When it comes to side dishes, I've found that pasta takes the cake. Not with tomato sauce, however.

I prefer it with butter and cheese. One favorite is in the fettuccine family. Tagliatelle is a word derived from the verb tagliare—to cut. The widths vary with the names all the way down to 1/8 inch-tagliarini. You can purchase them at an Italian specialty store.

Vermicelli is an old friend. It translates into "little worms," a very thin spaghetti. Like a number of thin pastas, it comes folded or in clusters as well as in straight rods.

I use vermicelli in soups, too.

I use pasta whenever I can.

Buttery, Cheesy Tagliatelle

1 pound tagliatelle
1/4 pound butter
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Liberal amount milled black pepper.

Pilot Light GREG MELIKOV

Cook tagliatelle to desired firmness and drain. Melt butter and place in hot bowl. Add pasta and gently toss with wooden forks or spoons. Add half of cheese and pepper; gently toss. Add remaining cheese and pepper; gently toss. Serve immediately. Serves four to six.

Vermicelli and Ricotta

1 pound vermicelli
4 tablespoons butter, melted

1/2 pound Ricotta cheese
Liberal amount milled black pepper
1/2 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Cook vermicelli to desired firmness and drain. Place pasta in hot bowl with three tablespoons butter. In small skillet, stir Ricotta with remaining butter until smooth and warm; pour over vermicelli; add pepper, parsley and Parmesan and toss.

Easy Ways To Help Your New Pet Adjust

by CHARLENE WHITNEY

It's a big step when you get a new pet. Whether the new member of the family is a puppy or a kitten, there are still many adjustments for everyone.

Housebreaking is the first thing that everyone wants out of the way. Set the tone with your pet from the start and follow through.

Schedule several times during the day, such as the morning, after meals, before and after play and when your pet first wakes up from a nap. At those times, take the kitten to his litter pan or the puppy for a walk outdoors. I would not recommend using paper training. Keep in mind that cats will only use a clean litter box which is free of bad smells.

Praise your pet when he relieves himself in the right place. Positive reinforcement is essential. Should he become frightened by you because of a mistake, he will wait to repeat it while you're gone. He may find a secret place to relieve himself.

Help your pet learn where his "spot" is with lots of praise for doing it right. Don't make him wait until he can't help it, either. In a month or two, your pet should be completely housebroken.

A new pet needs time to get used to his family. He should be introduced to other pets and to visitors. A pet that is raised in isolation tends to become a one-person animal. He may be frightened of any changes.

It's best if you lead as normal a life as possible so your pet will become comfortable with the household activities. Do allow him some rest time of his own. It is possible to handle a new pet too much.

Don't get too fancy with his food. He may become finicky.

Pet-Wise

The best thing for him is a respected brand name food that is formulated just for puppies or just for kittens. His stomach is small and he will need to eat three or four times a day.

Barking, meowing, or whining can mean he needs to eat or go out. It can also mean fear or loneliness. Sometimes, an animal will find noise can be an attention getter. Should this be the case, firmly tell him to stop and slap your hand on the wall or door. However, first check out the other possibilities. A clock or even the sound of a radio, set to a talk show, will often comfort your pet while you are away.

It is good for your pet to learn some obedience training. Buy your puppy or kitten a lightweight collar and leash. On short walks, teach him to walk quietly at your side, without pulling.

Set aside 15 minutes each day to work with your pet. Praise him for his progress and reward him with a treat reserved just for that. In about six months, your pet should be 95 percent trained in obedience.

For more training, there are some very good obedi-ce schools. Ask your veterinarian about them.

I believe that all dogs, pups, cats and kittens should be introduced to car rides on a pleasant basis. Sooner or later, it will be necessary for them to get in the car. There are visits to the veterinarian, unexpected trips, moves to be made, etc. A pet that is frightened of a car can complicate things for everyone.

A new pet has much to learn, but with your help and understanding, he'll be the best pet for years to come.

You Can Cut Refinance Charges On Your Home

by GARY S. MEYERS

Now that interest rates are nearing an eight-year low, numerous readers of The Meyers Report across the U.S. have asked:

Q. How do I escape the costs of refinancing my home?

A. Generally, you can save a few hundred dollars on title insurance and the credit report if you refinance with the same lender.

"If the appraised value of your home has appreciated over the past few years, it may be possible to borrow enough to include the points and other closing costs in your new mortgage," said Gloria Ceccerelli, president of Centurian Mortgage Co. in Deerfield, Ill.

However, the IRS has not ruled on whether all points that are rolled into the mortgage can be tax deductible for the year that you refinance. If you add the points to the loan amount, you may have to spread out the deduction for the points evenly over the life of the mortgage. So, if points on a 30-year loan total $2,100, you may have to deduct them at a rate of $70 per year for 30 years.

Q. We have a hole in our basement leaking mud and rain. How can we find a reputable repair firm? R. O'Connor, Moline, Ill.

A. Check with friends who have had good experiences with repair firms. Then get at least three bids to compare costs, services and materials from each firm.

Next, call your local Better Business Bureau. "While no one will recommend a firm, we do have records of consumer complaints against individual companies. We also have reports on finalized government actions against companies," said James Baumhart, with the BBB in Chicago.

"If you are in a rural area, check with your local building inspector's office."

Q. You recently did an article on single-premium whole life annuities. Where can I find insurance companies offering the program? W. Stromberg, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

A. At this time there are only about 20 insurance firms offering the program in the U.S., but the number is growing rapidly.

Marshall Norris, an insurance expert with E.F. Hutton gave us the following list of 10 firms actively marketing single-premium whole life annuities:

Q. Recently I talked to my bank about borrowing money. However, before they asked me any particulars or references, they said that my husband would have to co-sign. We decided to talk to someone else at the bank, but got the same answer.

I have borrowed money from this bank for more years than my husband has even lived in the area. I had established credit and borrowed for more than 10 years before I was married. Now, because I am married my credit vanished. This sounds like discrimination to me. What do you think? Molly H. Rensselaer, Ind.

A. If what you say is true, it does sound like discrimination. You should consider suing and dragging the bank into the 20th century as well as court. Certainly, you should go to another bank.

Q. I am almost 60, a widow with limited means. I want to supplement my income. My home is worth about $60,000. Could I buy a less expensive home as an investment, using my present home for security? Eleanor W., Bonthwyn, Pa.

A. If you have lived in your home for some time, say 15 years or more, you probably have substantial equity in the home. If your loan payments have been on time you probably could borrow against your home.

But remember, the new property that you would buy would have value of its own. So, the equity in your home could be used for a down payment. You could actually buy a property that is worth more than your present home.

It also does not have to be a single-family home. Any income property that has a good cash flow would probably work.

You sound like a spunky lady. See your attorney and go for it!

Q. I heard something I couldn't believe. A friend of mine told me that CD interest rates (certificates of deposit) usually go up when the stock market is bullish (rising). It seems to me to be just the opposite. Who's right? E. Thal, Brooklyn, Mass.

A. Neither of you is exactly correct. The current bull market is caused in part by falling interest rates, because low interest rates are good for the economy and corporate profitability. A better economy promotes borrowing (a demand for money) which raises interest rates—sometimes.

A few years ago the country was in need of investment capital. When interest rates started to rise, cash flowed in from overseas and the stock market rose.

If we had to pick you would be the winner.

Q. I am 30 years old, sick and cannot work. My wife is 66 and semi-invalid. Are we eligible for any disability benefits? Jim Eurt, Merideth, N.H.

A. Unfortunately, no. "Disability programs are primarily intended for those under 65 years of age, to help people to get to retirement. After 65, your regular retirement benefits replace the disability benefits," said Christine Naper, a Chicago attorney specializing in disability cases.

Q. I am interested in purchasing some short-term Treasury bills. Where can I buy them without paying a brokerage fee? R. Beckham, Edinburg, Ill.

A. You can purchase them directly from the U.S. Treasury. "Investors can write to their nearest Federal Reserve Bank for an application to purchase Treasury bills at auction. The whole transaction can be done through the mail," said Marc Klibanow, a stockbroker with E.F. Hutton.

"However, investors may find it easier to buy Treasury instruments through their local bank or a brokerage company for a nominal fee, around $25 to $50," said Klibanow.

Saving money by using less gas

THE UNHANDYMAN'S GUIDE TO CAULKING AND WEATHERSTRIPPING.

One of the best ways to save money on energy costs is to make improvements on your home that will help you use less energy.

One of the easiest and most worthwhile things you can do is minimize your heating and cooling loss by caulking and weatherstripping.

If you live in a typical home and install caulking and weatherstripping, you can trim your energy cost for heating by up to $40 per year. You'll recover your investment in two years or less, and after that it's money in the bank.

Caulking and weatherstripping your house requires a minimum of tools, time and know-how. Even not-so-handy homeowners can easily handle this job. You use caulk to plug air leaks outside and weatherstripping inside to seal the openings around doorways and windows.

"LET'S TALK CAULKING"

First, survey your house from the outside. Look for gaps in the exterior walls where you need caulk. Note any missing or sun dried caulk especially on the south side of your house.

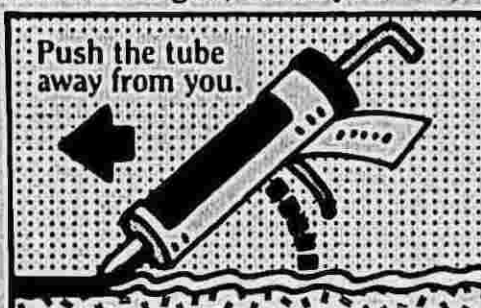

Here's where to look:

- Around all window and door frames
- Around exhaust fan
- Around window air conditioners
- Around holes cut for hose faucet, wires and pipes
- Around the chimney
- Around lighting fixtures
- Where masonry and siding meet.

Caulk is a flexible sealant designed to fill cracks and gaps in fixed joints of a house. One tube will fill about 25 feet of a narrow 1/4" crack or two small windows. In home centers and hardware stores you'll find a variety of caulks to choose from, but don't let that scare you. Ordinary latex caulk is easy to use and cleanup, and a good bet for the first time user. Silconized caulk is more expensive, but it lasts considerably longer. If you can afford to use a better grade of caulking you won't have to re-do the job every few years.

Check the label to see if the caulk can be painted, how long it takes to dry, the type thinner recommended for cleanup and what the temperature requirements are. Don't forget to purchase a caulk gun, unless you purchase caulk that comes in pressurized cans. Caulk guns usually cost only a few dollars.

1 Clean out the joint thoroughly and let dry. 2 Cut the tube tip off at a 45 degree angle making a 1/4" opening. 3 With the tube in the gun, break the seal with a nail. 4 Place the nozzle in the crack and squeeze the trigger while pushing the tube away from you to fill the gap. 5 Fill deep cracks with several beads of caulk. 6 Clean up immediately and put a nail in the tube nozzle to save for re-use.

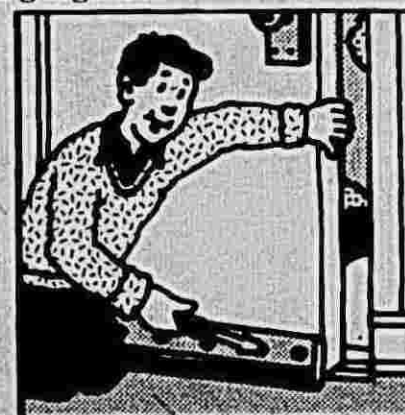

WEATHERSTRIPPING—THE INDOOR SOLUTION

Weatherstripping is the best way to stop air leaks.

To detect hidden drafts inside, make your own distress flag by taping a piece of tissue to a pencil. On a breezy day use this detector to find air leaks by holding it near window sills and doorways. If the tissue moves, you've located a spot that needs weatherstripping. Here's where to look for drafts: ■ Around all windows and door frames ■ Space around pulleys in double-hung windows ■ At electrical wall outlets and switches in exterior walls ■ Around heating registers.

Weatherstripping comes in many forms. For instance there are threshold weatherstripping materials designed to fill the gap between the bottom of a door and floor. For doors and windows, there's spring metal or brass weatherstripping that's inexpensive and effective. Self-adhesive plastic weatherstripping is more expensive but easier to install.

As a handy temporary sealer, you can use caulking rope or cord. For electrical outlets and light switches, low cost foam rubber gaskets can be used to seal gaps. And, in your garage molded stripping is available to seal your garage door.

Installation is easy and you'll find instructions with each of these products. Metal weatherstripping is easily cut with a heavy scissors or tin snips. Plastic is cut with a knife or scissors. Before applying adhesive-backed weatherstripping, clean the surface behind the glue for maximum grip.

NOW'S THE TIME.

Now's a perfect time to get to work on projects like caulking and weatherstripping. So why not start now?

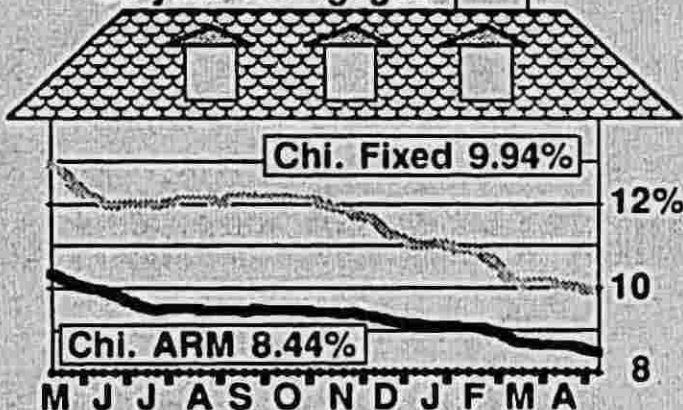

It'll be money in your pocket, when next winter rolls around.

General Facts About The Small Business World

There are about 15 million small businesses in the United States by size standards set by the U.S. Small Business Administration. About half of small businesses operate full time, the rest part time.

The number of small businesses has increased steadily during the past 30 years. In 1985, new business incorporations (one measure of new businesses) totaled about 668,904, a new record. The previous record of 634,991 new business incorporations was set in 1984.

Fiscal Year 1985 was a good year for small business. Small business income, as measured by sole proprietorship and partnership income, increased 12.3 percent during the first six months of the year compared with the similar 1984 period.

Small businesses employ about half of the private work force, contribute 42 percent of all sales in the country and are responsible for 38 percent of the gross national product.

One out of every two new small businesses will fail within the first four years of operation, studies show. Overall, a firm's chances of survival increase with size; firms with 20 or more workers have a 20 percent greater chance of survival than firms with fewer than 20 workers.

During 1981-82, small business employment proved a moderating force in the recession. During these years, small businesses produced a total of 2.65 million new jobs, while large businesses were cutting their employment by 1.7 million. Thus all the 984,000 new jobs generated in 1981-82 came from small firms.

Small firms also have led employment gains during the economic recovery and expansion. From October 1984 through September 1985, employment in industries dominated by small businesses (industries in which firms with fewer than 500 employees account for 60 percent or more of sales or employment) rose 5.9 percent; employment in industries dominated by large businesses rose six-tenths of one percent.

Jobs generated by small firms are more likely to be filled by younger workers, older workers and women. Many of these workers prefer or are only able to work on a part-time basis, and thus can be more easily accommodated by small employers.

Small businesses create two out of every three jobs, and thus are responsible for the major cost in initial on-the-job training in basic skills.

Studies show that the incidence of innovation among small business workers is significantly higher than among workers in large businesses. Small firms produce 2 1/2 times as many innovations as large firms relative to the number of persons employed.

Innovation coming from small hi-tech firms is expected to increase in the coming years as a result of the Small Business Innovation Research Act. Under the act, signed by President Reagan in 1982, 12 federal agencies with large research and development budgets must direct an increasing amount of R & D contracts to small firms—the source of most innovations and new technologies. During the first three years of the act, small firms received $400 million in R & D contracts; small firms are expected to receive another $400 million in Fiscal 1986.

Small businesses have been responsible for more than half of the new product and services innovations developed since World War II.

Almost every energy-related innovation of the past century has come from small business—for example, the gasoline engine, the electric light, the electric auto and the air conditioner, the petroleum cracking.

To Honor 15 Million

The nation's 15 million small business owners will be honored during the 22nd annual National Small Business Week, May 18-24.

Under the theme, "Small Business is BIG Business in the U.S.A.," contributions of small companies will be noted at local and state ceremonies and at special activities in Washington, D.C.

Outstanding small business owners from each state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico will be singled out for special honors as national examples of success, advocacy and community leadership. The "small business person of the year" will be selected from among the state winners, who were chosen by committees of their peers.

Small Business Week, which was proclaimed by President Reagan, is coordinated by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

In addition to the 52 state small business winners, Small Business Advocates of the Year will be honored during the Washington ceremonies. They will include a young entrepreneur, a big business that helped to strengthen small business, a small business exporter and an innovative small business or a supporter of small business innovation.

Small Firms Get Bigger Share of Contracts

Small businesses in hi-tech fields are expected to be awarded $400 million in federal research and development contracts this year through the Small Business Innovation Development Act.

Under the act, which was signed by President Reagan in 1982, 12 large federal agencies must direct an increasing amount of R & D work to small firms. During the first three years of the SBIR program, small hi-tech firms got about $380 million in R & D work.

The SBIR program is specifically geared to helping small hi-tech firms turn ideas into marketable products, while still accomplishing needed research. Small hi-tech firms are the nation's major source of new products and new technologies.

More than 20,000 proposals for research projects have been submitted by small firms since the program began.

The R and D awards come in two stages:

The first, with a general limit of $50,000, is intended to evaluate the merit of an idea.

The second phase, with awards up to $500,000, is aimed at further development of the original ideas; between 30 and 40 percent of Phase I recipients go on to get Phase II awards.

The third phase of the program involves getting private venture capital to bring the idea to market.

Long-term supporters of the SBIR concept say the program gives some of the most creative companies in the country a chance to prove ideas that may be too far out and too risky for the private venture capital industry. As SBIR awardees carry out federal research, supporters argue, the small firms will strengthen their credibility among private investors.

The 12 federal agencies directly involved in boosting small business R & D awards are the Depts. of Agriculture, Commerce, Defense, Education, Energy, Health and Human Services, Interior and Transportation; Environmental Protection Agency, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, National Science Foundation and Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

1980s: Decade Of Entrepreneur

The 1980's, according to economists, university professors and newspaper and magazine articles, are developing into the decade of the entrepreneur. Even some giant corporations are claiming that at the heart of their disassembled assembly lines they have entrepreneurial souls.

By definition, an entrepreneur is a man or woman who is an employer of productive labor, a person who undertakes to carry out an enterprise.

Most of the nation's entrepreneurs are small business men and women; by size standards set by the U.S. Small Business Administration, 99 percent of the country's companies are small. Government statistics show there are about 15 million small businesses in the U.S.

Other government figures support the growing belief that entrepreneurship is on the rise. New business incorporations, a good sign of business activity, hit a new high of 668,904 last year; such incorporations total almost two million over the last three years, a record by far.

More than 20 million new jobs have been created over the last 10 years, and almost all have been generated by small businesses.

Along the way have come a bunch of new industries and new products, everything from erasable memory computer chips to fast-growing regional airlines.

Business observers say that there are new players in today's entrepreneurial boom. There still are the tinkers, the dreamers and the malcontents. But today's entrepreneur is more likely than before to have a big business school education or big corporation track record. There also is a good chance that the founder of a 1980s business isn't male or white—and that he or she wasn't born in the U.S. but came to the country as an immigrant.

Economists and other observers of today's business scene cite two main reasons for the entrepreneurial boom:

—Americans since the beginning have displayed an independent spirit and have dreamed of being their own bosses.

—The personal and physical restraints associated with giant corporations and urban society have spurred an increasing number of men and women to set out on their own.

Reagan Administration officials argue for a third reason, contending that President Reagan's policies and programs—including lower taxes, less regulation and less paperwork, plus the resulting and continuing economic prosperity—have spawned a climate that encourages more people to set out on their own.

Small Business Big In U.S.A.

At first glance, the average American small business isn't all that much: A boss overseeing a few workers or perhaps the boss alone, working as a sole proprietorship.

But there's a much better measurement: Put the nation's 15 million small businesses in a pot, and small business turns out to be mighty big business. Indeed, the economic health of all depends in large part on the health of America's small businesses.

Small entrepreneurs, still mostly men but including a fast-growing number of women (and of minorities), employ about half the private work force, are responsible for about 40 percent of national production, create (by far) the most new jobs and account for most new products and new technologies. During continuing prosperity, statistics show that employment in industries dominated by small firms has risen more than twice as fast as employment in industries dominated by large corporations.

National Small Business Week, to be noted May 18-24, gives all of us a chance to pay special salute to small business men and women—those entrepreneurs operating in our town and state and across the country. During the week, which was proclaimed by President Reagan and is coordinated by the U.S. Small Business Administration, special tribute will go to outstanding small business owners in each state, selected by their peers as having recorded their own business successes and as having made significant contributions to the small business community and to their home communities.

The theme of this year's Small Business Week is especially appropriate: "Small Business is BIG business in the U.S.A." Big business in the country and in our hometown, for which we should be ever thankful.

Bristol To Get Commercial Development By End Of May

Amoco is expected to break ground for its 21-pump service station and convenience mart at the intersection of Hwys. 1-94 and 50 by the end of May.

Roger Hoff, Racine, owner of Hardee's fast food restaurant in Kenosha, is also expected to start construction on another Hardee's at the same intersection by the end of the month.

And a significant new commercial development project at the northwest intersection of Hwys. 1-94 and 50 in Bristol Twp. has also been unveiled.

William Ruetz, president of Bristol Development Corp. made the announcement of a planned mixed use development named 'Bristol Parkway.' Bristol Development Corp. which consist of a group of local business persons committed to southeastern Wisconsin.

The development will encompass 103 acres of land in Bristol Twp.

Ruetz indicated that over the past 18 months of acquisition and planning, the corporation could not have realized this development without the enthusiastic support of Noel Elfering, Bristol town chairman. Many other state and local officials have assisted in bringing the development to reality.

In addition, Ruetz stated that the development compliments WEPCo's 1,300 acre industrial park, located three miles east of their project.

In order to assure continuity of effort, Bristol Parkway is a totally planned development encompassing a manufacturers outlet square, motel facilities, restaurants, an office park and an area for service facilities.

With a total projected cost of 70 million dollars this project will be among one of the largest in southeastern Wisconsin.

Located on one of the highest traffic count interchanges in the midwest, Bristol Development Corp. is confident that a high quality project is feasible and needed. The site enjoys excellent visibility for those traveling the interstate system and is easily accessible with a full traffic interchange.

Ruetz stated that, being a local businessman, and attorney for Bristol Twp., he is insisting the project to be a model of sound planning and design. As part of this goal, Ruetz indicated that the project will be one in which southeastern Wisconsin should be able to point to with pride.

At present, engineering contracts have been signed for the internal road construction and overall site preparation, with actual construction to begin at the end of May.

Negotiations are presently underway with two major motel chains with construction scheduled to begin in late summer.

The manufacturers outlet square will be a new concept to the midwest, although it has received high acceptance in the south and west. Scheduled for opening in late fall, the manufacturing firms represented will enjoy a clustering of buildings versus a mall and will feature an open courtyard as a focal point.

Through this design the firms will have a greater control of their space and the space immediately surrounding their facility. Specific manufacturers have been contacted and have shown not only support but also a strong desire to be included in the first phase of the project.

The second phase of the project will include the expansion of the manufacturers outlet square, creation of an office park and the development of the service facilities area. In this area, service industries and suppliers will enjoy a park like setting for their facilities. With the central location of the site, midway between Milwaukee and Chicago, firma looking to expand to a regional basis will find an optimal location.

Bristol Development Corp. expects to announce another local development in the next two months.

Panthers Smelling NWSC Championship Title

All the Round Lake Panthers had to do this week was win one of their last two Northwest Suburban Conference games to clinch at least a tie for the league title.

The Panthers were scheduled to play at Johnsbury May 12 and at Wauconda May 14. Going into this week's action, Round Lake was 11-1 in the conference and 16-5 overall.

They were one game ahead of the Grant Bulldogs going into the Johnsbury game with only two games remaining for each team.

The Panthers are currently on a mini-hot streak, winning all five of their games last week.

They defeated the Marengo Indians May 5 by a score of 13-7. Joe Lobinger was the winning pitcher in relief of Bill Hart.

There were many who managed more than one hit on the day: Damon Horn (2-5), Curt Schmidt (3-4), Doug Sparks (2-2), Chuck Banker (3-5), Brett Ligenza (2-4) and Lobinger (3-4, including a home run).

The Panthers then defeated McHenry 13-6 in a non-conference battle May 6. The winning pitcher was Horn.

On May 7, Round Lake beat Marian Central 14-7 behind Keith Schmidt, who went 3-4 at the plate and pitched the Panthers to the seven-run win.

Other big hitters for the Panthers in this one included Curt Schmidt (3-5), Banker (3-5), Hart (2-4) and Bob Akers (2-3).

To round out the week, Round Lake defeated a tough Lake Zurich squad 6-4 in continuation game and 10-7 in the night-cap.

Sparks was the winner in both contests.

Last week the adjustments were outlined describing the procedure when the ball lies higher or above the golfer's feet. Now, the opposite situation will be focused upon, when the ball is below or lower than the feet. 1) Bend the body a little more at the waist than in a normal stance. 2) As in the illustration, the hands need to be higher at address to allow the sole of the club to confirm to the hillside. 3) Consciously put more weight back on the heels even though the natural posture would cause leaning forward onto the toes. 4) Keep the head quite still and maintain an easy balance throughout the swing. As in the opposite lie, use one club more than needed for the same distance on a level lie and aim slightly left as this lie causes one to push or slice the ball.

Warren Wins 2

Better play on defense will be the key factor in just how far Warren Twp. High baseball team advances in next week's regional tournament.

"Hopefully we can play some better defense and do decently in the regional," Warren coach Ron Shelton said.

The Blue Devils compete in the Grayslake regional, although the team's seed was not known at press time.

Warren completes regular season play with a home game against Lake Forest May 15.

WTHS beat North Chicago and Antioch last week before losing twice to Libertyville for an 8-8 NSC mark, 9-11 overall.

"We feel we have played well as of late," Shelton said. Pitcher Tom Thompson stopped the Warhawks 11-5 to open the week's play.

Brad Beitzel pitched what Shelton called "a real good game" in a 15-5, six-inning win over Antioch's Sequoia.

Against Libertyville May 11, Warren dropped a close 9-6 decision to the Wildcats before losing the nightcap 18-6.

"We made it close at the end. The trouble was we played poor defense. Nolan (Russ) pitched pretty well," Shelton said of the first game.

Lancer Netters Reach National JC Tourney

by JOHN PHELPS

The weekend of May 3-4, the CLC mens tennis team capped off what has been a brilliant season by qualifying for the National Tournament following a second-place finish in the Region IV tourney held in Rockford.

Lake County finished the two-day tourney with 16 points, second to champion College of DuPage, who ended with 32 total points. Other respective finishers were Sauk Valley in third with 15, Thornton 15, Joliet 11, Wright 9, Moraine Valley 7, Harper 5, Illinois Valley and Kankakee 3, Triton 2, as was Waubonsee and McHenry, Rock Valley and Truman 1, and Elgin 0.

Individually for the Lancers, No. 1 singles Dave Klein, formerly from Waukegan West H.S., was upset in the semi-finals by Mike Shearborn of Sauk Valley, 7-5, 6-4. Klein thus finished third in the tourney. At No. 2 singles, Fred Acosta out of Zion Benton H.S., placed second, as he was dethroned in the finals by Jim Bowers of DuPage, 6-1, 6-2. Unseeded No. 3 singles Lonnie Grote, out of Antioch High School, scored a big upset over the No. 2 seeded Greg Hajdich of Thornton, 6-7, 6-3, and 7-5. Unfortunately, Grote ultimately lost in the semi-finals to Jeff Redfield of Sauk Valley, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, thus finishing third. At No. 4 singles Mark Nordby, in his first year out of Maine East H.S., collected a second place finish, as he made it to the finals before losing to VeeJay Zala of DuPage, 6-3, 6-4.

In the No. 5 singles position for Lake County, Bob Bramhill out of Lake Forest High School, also seeded No. 2, was upset in the quarter-finals by Bob Fowler of Joliet, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4. And in the No. 6 singles slot, No. 3 seeded Chris Kendra, out of Grant High School was outlasted by his opponent, 7-5, 2-6 and 6-2.

In doubles competition, the Lancers top tandem of Klein/Acosta finished third, following a semi-finals ousting by DuPage's Jim Bowers/Steve Moniszko, 6-2, 6-1. At No. 2 doubles,

CLC's Klobberdanz Top Boardman

Klobberdanz finished the season with an average of 13.9 rebounds per game, making him the country's seventh leading junior college boardman in that category.

He also won the Skyway Conference rebounding title as well as placing on top of the final Illinois JC statistics for rebounds.

Klobberdanz is a 1980 graduate of St. Gilbert's School in Grayslake.

Sequoits Win Doubleheaders

The Antioch varsity diamondmen took the Fenton Bisons in both games of a double header played on May 10, 3-1, 7-5.

Sequoit pitcher Steve Pappadakis retired the entire Fenton lineup for the first five innings of the opener and only gave up three hits in the next two innings.

Pappadakis has been steadily improving his pitching as the season progresses according to Sequoit Coach Rich Brown.

Antioch exploded in the fourth inning of the second game to set the pace for that game's final two-run edge.

It was Bob Cord, Brian Pankouskis and Mike Galdine who accounted for those runs.

Pitcher Rick Risch, who eliminated five and gave up six hits, took the credit for game number two.

The Antioch softball team not only won its double header against Fenton, but did so resoundingly, beating the Bisons 9-7, and 10-0.

This puts the Sequoits in second place with Mundelein one game ahead in the North Suburban Conference.

The Sequoits were behind at the start of the first game until Julie Sexton lit the fire for the big comeback. Sexton had a two-run homer, a double, a triple and five RBIs.

Kim Alfano had two triples for four RBIs and Debbie Sigler also slammed a two run homer in the first game.

The Sequoits' Wonder Woman, Denise Maple was the winning pitcher for both games after relieving the pitcher that she started the second game, Dori Harp.

Those two wins give the Sequoits a 16-3 overall and 13-2 in conference play.

Grant Finds That Two Losses Are One Too Many

After playing at a pace that, in other years, would guarantee a conference championship, the Grant baseball Bulldogs appear to be headed for a second place finish with only two losses.

For whatever it is worth, the team can take some consolation from the fact that both losses were to the team that appears certain to win the division: the Round Lake Panthers.

In the final week and a half of play, the Bulldogs' bats were as hot as ever. The team beat Johnsburg 10-8, Grayslake 8-5, and Marian Central 6-3. Joe Vocke, Mike Kazlauskis, Jim Theobald, Mark Borton, and Frank Geu continued to rank among the conference's leading hitters as they combined for 15 runs batted in during the week and hit an overall .415.

Mike McDonald was the winning pitcher in the games against Johnsburg and Marian, raising his conference record to 6-2. Joe Vocke raised his conference record to 2-0 as he beat Grayslake.

Varsity baseball coach, Fritz Kazlauskis, is particularly excited about prospects for next season. "We will have eight or nine juniors returning and the sophomores coming up put together an excellent record. We should have an experienced, solid team next year. Of course, you had to figure that if you put together a season like the one we had this year, you should have a championship.

It is unusual to see a baseball team win the conference with only one loss," Kazlauskis said. He added that the only thing he would really like to see added for next year is a good top-notch pitcher.

After finishing up the conference season with games against Wauconda and Lake Zurich this week, the Bulldogs will go to the Waukegan Regional beginning Monday, May 19.

Mustangs Sweep ZeeBees, Aiming To Challenge Grant

The Mundelein High School varsity baseball team will challenge Stevenson at home on Thursday, May 15 and a non-conference game against Grant away on Saturday, May 17. They were expected to face Niles North on May 13.

The Mustangs swept a doubleheader again Zion-

Benton beating the ZeeBees 6-5 during eight innings in the first game and 9-3 in the second, bringing their conference record to 9-7.

Winning pitcher in the first game was senior right-hander Dan Word, whose record is now 7-2 overall. In hitting, Word had three hits, with a double and a triple.

Eric Regez had also singled in Word for a winning run.

During the second game, Scott Dressendorfer had three hits with two triples. Winning pitcher was Jay Retzinger who struck out six and walked one.

Rams Lose All Hope Of Northwest Title

by DAN G. O'SHEA

The Grayslake Rams lost hopes of a Northwest Suburban Conference baseball title last week by losing two important conference games.

The week started out well for the Rams with a 13-2 win over Marian Central as they boosted their league record to 6-3. Mike Langer went the distance on the mound, allowing one earned run while striking out six and walking none. Tom Castino was 3-5 with three runs batted in, Jeff West was 2-3 including a home run and three RBIs, Russ Hendricks was 2-4 with two RBIs and Bill Sangbusch was 2-5 with two RBIs.

The Rams' bad luck started in the following game as they lost to Grant 8-5 in eight innings. The Bulldogs took an early 4-0 lead, but the Rams battled back to tie the score in the fourth inning at 4-4. Grant took a 5-4 lead in the sixth, but the Rams scored again in the seventh to make it 5-5 and put the game into extra innings. Grant scored three runs in the eighth to sew up the victory.

Kelly Bye pitched all eight innings of the Grant game for the Rams. Langer had two doubles for Grayslake, and Bye and Castino had two hits apiece.

Grayslake dropped its second game of the week to Wauconda 11-10. "We took an 8-0 lead in the third, but we couldn't hold on," said Rams coach Jim Haas. Sangbusch started the game for the Rams and Langer relieved in the sixth. Castino was the offensive star, going 4-5 and hitting for the cycle with a single, double, triple and home run. West went 3-5, while Langer and Greg Dunski had two hits each. Sangbusch also had a home run for Grayslake.

Grayslake was scheduled to wrap up its conference schedule with road games this week against Marengo and Johnsburg. The Rams host Zion-Benton Friday, May 16 in a non-conference game and enter regional tournament play next week.

Mustangs Win Sectional

by STEVE PETERSON

As far as Mundelein girls track coach Rich Foss is concerned, the Mustangs have already had one banner year.

Getting to the state track meet as a competitor has been the reward for girls track athletes since East St. Louis Lincoln started dominating the meets more than 10 years ago.

"Coaches like to call the state meet the East St. Louis Lincoln Invitational. They're so good they just let the other teams come. It's a culmination of a lot of hard work throughout the season," Foss said of the state meet.

Mundelein will be coming off a day at Algonquin Jacobs that the Mustangs will be remembering for some time to come.

The Mustangs held off challenges from Barrington and Cary-Grove to come away with the sectional title May 10.

Mundelein finished with 46 points, 10 ahead of Barrington and Cary-Grove, which were tied for second. Other Lakeland area finishes included Antioch's sixth-place 21 points; Carmel For Girls was tied with Crystal Lake Central with 16 points for 10th; Johnsburg was 11th at 10 points. Grant tied Elgin Larkin with three points for the 17th spot. Round Lake, Wauconda and Grayslake were shutout.

Foss said he felt confident about his team's chances after Pam Kinkleaar won the 3,200 meter low hurdles in 46.7.

"We felt pretty certain of our chances after Pam won the 3,200 lows. We were pretty confident," Foss said.

Kinkleaar also gave Mundelein points in the 100-meter low hurdles with a 14.0.

Lisa Robinson will join Kinkleaar as a two-event competitor in Charleston.

Robinson finished second in the shot put at 35 1/2" and second in the discus at 108' 1".

Carrie Fuller of Mundelein finished second to Barrington's Becky Peterson in the 1,600 meter run.

Mundelein had two strong showings in the 400-meter relay and a new event, the 3,200 meter relay.

The Mustangs took top honors in the 400 with a 51.4 clocking.

The performance in the 3,200 was surprising. Overcoming a disadvantage of a lane six assignment, Mundelein's foursome knocked 29 second off its previous best with a 9:55.8, good enough for second place.

Stephanie Hertel was third in the long jump and Lisa White was third in the 3,200 meter run.

The title in the sectional makes up for a somewhat disappointing dual meet and conference season.

"We went into the season with pretty high hopes. We were undefeated last year in duals. We felt we would be strong in conference. But we had some injuries and were 7-3 in duals. It was somewhat of a disappointment in conference but this makes up for it," Foss said.

Kentucky Offers One Of The Largest Inland Lakes

Kentucky Lake Vacationland (KLV) in western Kentucky has the advantage of offering one of the country's largest inland lakes. Here, their slow southern pace, good cooking and hospitality combine with excellent fishing and related water sports of boating and swimming.

In this Marshall County area housing, resorts, camping and recreational equipment rentals make it unnecessary to bring much more than the family. Kentucky Lake's west 20-mile Marshall County shoreline is doubled by the opposite shores of Land Between the Lakes. It's an easy eight-hour drive to Marshall County, Ky. Details may be obtained by writing KLV, Dept. CB, Box 145, Benton, KY, 42025, or calling (502) 527-7665.

Green County, Wis., with 91 percent of its land devoted to agriculture, houses the town of Monroe, known as the Swiss Cheese Capitol of the U.S. Visitors and residents are invited to Green County's annual $2 Dairy Breakfast on the Farm, featuring eggs, sausage plus all the trimmings and fun. Breakfast is held Saturday, May 31, at the Ladwig place, midway between Monroe and Albany. Serving begins at 6 a.m. Breakfast can be followed by a trip over Sugar River Trail with the bikers and hikers. The smooth limestone trail winds for miles over the beauty of trestled wooden bridges, around picturesque hills and beside brilliant meadows which make southern Wisconsin so famous.

One trail access point is at New Glarus with its well-known Swiss Museum. Here the Heidi Fest, on June 28 and 29, includes old-world drama, yodeling, bell ringing, alphorn blowing, music, crafts and foods symbolic of its Swiss heritage. More festivity information is available from the Green County Tourism Office, Box 516-R, Monroe, WI, 53566. They will send a colorful comprehensive brochure and answer specific questions.

May 18 through 24 is National Tourism Week and Illinois is seriously seeking the tourism market this year. According to Gov. James R. Thompson, the 1985 Illinois recreation industry generated $6.3 billion and employed some 150,000. Recreation, conservation and other life-quality factors are assuming added importance to the Illinois economy. Combining this with the state's $10 million tourism promotion fund, promises new facilities for both residents and Illinois visitors.

Keeping a "weather eye" open during May and June is good advice, according to weatherwatchers across the nation. In a 36-year study, May has the dubious distinction of having the most tornadoes, followed by June. The midwest's tornado alley can produce no-warning touchdown areas, or have warnings that vary from 20 minutes to an hour, stemming from various National and Local Weather Watch services.

Each year billions of dollars in storm losses are recorded, but that unmeasurable component, human life, has a value that justifies a personal, watchful weather eye...especially in unfamiliar locales.

Hold 'Amigo' Meeting

Parents Without Partners of Lake County will host an "Amigo" meeting for single parents interested in learning about the club in Round Lake Beach from 8 to 10 p.m. on Wednesday, May 14. For directions and information, call (312) 546-5463.

Schedule Special Hilton Head Tour

A special motorcoach vacation which combines a chance to experience America's colonial history and architectural heritage with a stay at one of the country's most magnificent recreational complexes is being offered this June by On The Road Tours.

The nine-day "Hilton Head Island & Charleston" tour program, priced at only $635 per person, double occupancy, departs Chicago and South Bend on June 7, bound for Kentucky's Bluegrass Country, the Smoky Mountains, Savannah and Atlanta, as well as Charleston and Hilton Head Island.

The itinerary features two nights in aristocratic Charleston, staying at the luxurious Mills House, rated three stars in the Mobil Guide. Charleston was the first American city to protect and preserve its architectural heritage, and many buildings predating the Revolutionary War are still in use today. Optional excursions to a nearby tidewater plantation and Fort Sumter will be offered.

The Charleston stay will be followed by a full day at Hilton Head Island, a recreational paradise with 12 miles of unspoiled beaches, 11 championship golf courses, over 175 tennis courts, 13 miles of bike paths and some of the best salt water fishing on the east coast. Tour members will stay at the Holiday Inn, located right on the beach.

A full day in Savannah, Ga. is also featured. Savannah is another city of the old south where graceful mansions and antebellum buildings have been restored to their original grandeur. A stay at the four-star DeSoto Hilton Hotel will highlight the Savannah stop.

The program also includes a visit to the opulent Biltmore House in the Smoky Mountains, built in 1895 by George Vanderbilt to rival the great chateaux of the Loire Valley in France; a stop in booming Atlanta; and a visit to Louisville's most famous landmark, Churchill Downs, with its colorful museum of the Kentucky Derby.

The nine-day "Hilton Head Island & Charleston" motorcoach vacation is fully detailed in On The Road Tours' new 20-page color brochure, which also lists the operator's many other tour programs.

For more information, contact On The Road Tours, P.O. Box 183, Downers Grove, IL 60515. The telephone is (312) 852-8666.

Dells To Celebrate 11th Balloon Rally

Beautiful creations of aerial color and artistry will paint the skies over Wisconsin Dells on May 31 and June 1, as over 70 balloonists compete in the 11th Annual Great Wisconsin Dells Balloon Rally. Competitive events will take place at 7 a.m. on both Saturday and Sunday. At 5 p.m. on May 31, a mass ascension will take place.

This year's rally will also feature the Taste of Wisconsin and kickoff the 1986 fundraiser for the American Diabetes Assn. of Madison.

According to Tom Sheppard, president of the Balloon Federation of America and balloon meister of the Great Wisconsin Dells Balloon Rally, the Wisconsin Dells rally is one of the most prestigious and sought after ballooning events in the world.

"The balloonists like the strict competition of the race. It attracts top talent and makes it a challenging event for other competitors," says Sheppard. "Ballooning is a family sport and Wisconsin Dells is a great family vacation place to visit, so it's an ideal location for a balloon rally," he added.

The balloonists, who come from across the nation, compete for points to win the Wisconsin Dells rally and gain points to qualify for the U.S. Nationals. Many of the pilots who are flying in the Wisconsin Dells rally will also be attending the North American Championships held in Barrie, Ontario in July.

Several accuracy tests are used to determine the pilots' skills. The Hare and Hound race is a flight in which the "hare" sets the course according to air and wind currents. The "hounds" follow the same course utilizing skillful navigation. The Watership Down is a flight where balloonists fly into the field, drop a marker and follow a "hare" to a landing area before dropping another marker. The pilot who lands his marker closest to the target receives the most points.

Alzheimer's Disease

Alzheimer's Disease will be the topic of the next meeting of the Hand in Hand support group, made up of those caring for elderly loved ones. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m., Monday, May 12 at the Lake Villa Library. The public is invited.

How can the Joneses afford a week on the Gulf Coast?

Sit down to a seafood dinner in any one of our waterfront restaurants and the couple next to you will probably be from Illinois. How can they afford it? Easy. Our hotel and motel rates are lower right now because it's off-season. So a lot of your Chicago neighbors are here enjoying the season we call winter — although you might call it spring. Our sun shines bright year round. So you can play golf on our 11 courses. Eat fresh seafood. Or stroll on the beach in just a jacket. Our free planner shows you just how little it costs. ☐ Send for yours today. Then just act smug when your neighbors ask how you can afford it.

To Fete 15 Seniors

During Senior Citizen Month, 15 Lake County seniors will be honored as outstanding senior citizens at a luncheon/honors program sponsored by the Lake County Council for Seniors.

This annual event will be held at the Antioch Senior Center, 817 Holbek Dr., Antioch, on Wednesday, May 21, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

The program will include a special lunch, with entertainment by Mildred Pinc at the piano; Charles Youlden, yodeling; Joe Stepniwski on the accordion; and Lauretta Bettis, whistling.

Following this there will be the presentation of awards to the very special 15 seniors: Mildred Corris, Helen Donohue, Margaret Fincutter, Victor Gantar, Dick Hartman, Meda Jakomovich, John Koch, Herbert Meyer, Daisy Nowachek, William Oglesby, Louis Palka, Jean Snyder, Joseph Stepniwski, Andy Swet and Julia Wojtarowicz.

One hundred five senior clubs were contacted and requested to nominate a senior to receive an award. The response was very good, making the committee's selection task difficult because all the nominated seniors are outstanding, giving so much to other seniors and to the community.

The 12 seniors receiving honorable mentions are Ella Becker, Mary Jeanne Casey, Amelia Davidowicz, Kenneth Hatfield, Madeline Hudson, Irene Murphy, Charles Owen, Ivy Putz, Amelia Reidil, Ann Rezmer, Bernice Rosinski and Marie Ross.

There Are Benefits For L-Tryptophan Users

Question: Is L-Tryptophan really beneficial for mild, chronic insomnia?

Answer: A four month study, completed in Switzerland in 1984, showed considerable benefits for chronic insomnia patients using L-Tryptophan. The regime was two grams of L-Tryptophan per day for a three day on, four day off schedule. L-Tryptophan is an amino acid found naturally in milk products, tuna, turkey and peanuts.

To receive benefits from dietary sources only, the diet would need to contain these sources on a daily basis in substantial quantities. If you need to follow a low-fat diet for a particular health condition you may not be able to consume enough of these foods for the desired tryptophan levels. Supplementary sources of this amino acid are available over the counter.

Large doses of L-Tryptophan can interfere with the utilization of vitamins B-6. Therefore, if this product is taken routinely vitamin B-Complex should be added to the supplement program. All the B-vitamins work with the nervous system, and aid in relaxation and reduce anxiety and irritability. Since the B-vitamins are water soluble they need to be consumed continually as they are not stored and are lost with increased stress.

Eating complex carbohydrate foods, fruit, vegetables and whole grains, along with the L-Tryptophan appears to increase its effectiveness, according to Richard Wurtman, Ph.D. of the Center for Brain Sciences and Metabolism at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Simple sugar foods (candy, cookies, etc.) have the opposite effect on the body and should be avoided, especially at bedtime.

The sleep process is learned and the body works on a sleep/wake schedule. The body's sleep/wake cycle works like a clock and sometimes does not match the individuals' needs and should be reset. In order to reset a cycle you need to awake one hour earlier to produce one hour earlier sleep time.

Sherman Receives Award

Doug Sherman, geology/oceanography instructor at the College of Lake County (CLC), Grayslake, has been selected as the college's outstanding faculty member. Michael Smith, president of the CLC Student Senate, presented Sherman with an inscribed plaque which will hang in the college board room.

The selection process is based on student nominations, supporting statements from associate deans and a statement of philosophy submitted by the instructor.

The selection of CLC's outstanding faculty member is part of a state-wide selection for Illinois' outstanding faculty member.

Sherman has been nominated for the state award.

The top five schools received a plaque. The top 10 individual winners in each category were trophies. The top five scorers at each school were presented with ribbons and certificates of participation were given to all entrants.

"This contest is an example of the commitment to quality accounting education by the college," according to Holland.

Nix Clause If Bill Fails

by GLORIA DAVIS

As the raise of the drinking age controversy continues to flame, one fact seems to have escaped many of the headlines:

According to a representative of the Wis. Dept. of Transportation, if the drinking age raise does not go through at the special session starting May 21 (an extension of the last session of the legislature) and it does pass in the future, the grandfather clause allowing present 19-21-year-olds to keep their drinking privileges can not be invoked.

This means that if the age raise bill fails to pass at the special session and is brought up in future legislative sessions and passed, there will be no drinking for anyone under 21 from the date the law becomes effective.

There is a concerted effort taking place in Madison to see that the bill to be presented at the upcoming special legislative session is worded correctly, since many of the states that have already adhered to the 21-year-old law did not comply with all the required federal regulations.

Gil Meisgeier, president of the Kenosha County Tavern League, is calling on Wisconsin bar owners to close their bars and travel to Madison on Wednesday, May 21, the day the legislature is due to vote on raising Wisconsin's drinking age to 21.

Meisgeier, owns two Salem Twp. bars, both located on Hwy. 83 in the five-mile area between Hwy. 50 and the Illinois border, known as "Slaughter Alley", in the early 1980s after Illinois raised its drinking age.

In reiterating the tavern league's statements that raising the age will not decrease teen drunk-driving, Meisgeier said that he has statistics showing that states that have raised the drinking age have had an increase in youthful drinking-driving arrests.

He added that stats from mid-Illinois counties, where teens cannot reach a drinking border, have also had a raise in open intoxicant and transporting intoxicants arrests in an area where they should not be able to purchase them.

Contrary to Meisgeier's numbers, Lakeland Newspapers two years after the Illinois raise, called three law enforcement agencies in the same Illinois area and found claims of a 30 percent decrease in youthful drunken driving arrests and also a considerable decrease in teen deaths and injuries caused by alcohol-related accidents.

BUYING A HOME SATELLITE DISH IS COSTLIER THAN YOU THINK.

Before you spend your hard earned money on a satellite receive dish you should learn the facts.

This year popular premium services like HBO and Cinemax will begin scrambling their signals with highly sophisticated electronic encryption devices.

And this new technique won't be limited to just premium services. Many basic cable channels like ESPN, MTV and CNN have announced their intentions to scramble signals.

What does this mean for satellite dish owners?

In addition to paying several thousand dollars for the purchase and installation of a receive dish, it will be necessary to spend hundreds of dollars on descrambling equipment plus pay monthly service fees for each channel received.

Make your decision based on the facts.

Neal, Cronies Leading Republicans Astray

by JOHN STEINKE

Recently, I received an anonymous letter critical of the present Lake County Republican leadership, including Sheriff Robert H. "Mickey" Babcox, Chairman Robert P. Neal and Warren Twp. Supervisor Bob Depke. The author praised both Gretchen B. Schalck and Venita L. McConnell. Depke defeated Schalck for Warren Twp. Supervisor. McConnell lost the GOP nomination for Lake County Clerk. Here are my anonymous friend's observations:

"Week after week I read your column with great interest. You hit the nail on the head so many times, especially regarding 'Boss Hog Babcox.' What I don't understand is the fact that you don't seem to see the Babcox/Depke relationship. Babcox is to Lake County as Depke is to Warren Twp. Yet when a decent, intelligent, young woman (Gretchen B. Schalck) ran against Depke (for supervisor) to try to rid the township and the County of some of Babcox's spreading cancer, you saw fit to crucify her.

"Venita McConnell is another one of the people, who stands for decency. Look what happened to her. She got dumped on by the very same cancer; a cancer she had worked vigorously to elect. Maybe, McConnell and Schalck are naive to think things will ever change in the Republican party. But they keep right on fighting, which gives people like me some hope. Many voters are decent and honorable people, who don't know what is going on in this county. As more and more of these people find out, these independent thinkers will begin to vote for more and more Democrats, just to give this county the balance it sorely needs.

"How can Neal tell us in one breath that Donna-Mae Litwiler is ineffective on the Lake County Board and a tool of the sheriff, and then let her control the Lake County clerk's office? Come on, dumb we're not! How can Neal say we'll punish drug dealers in the Lake County Republican Platform when (he defends his) friend Haley?

"Two years ago, many people mistakenly thought that Bob Neal was going to lead the party in the right direction. Little did they realize that he would jump in bed with the very corrupt power that all of them were trying to oust! Unfortunately, no one wanted the job of Chairman bad enough, nor could anyone muster up enough courageous precinct committeemen to vote for them. So they (the Republican precinct committeemen) voted reluctantly to retain Neal as Chairman. You're on the right track Steinke—just keep on truckin'.—A Fan!!

Comment: To my one fan-in-the stands, your analysis of Lake County GOP Bob Neal is right on target. Neal should be the recipient of the Alger Hiss Award of Political Betrayal. On Dec. 3, 1985, Bob Neal and I were eyeball-to-eyeball and martini-to-martini at the Country Squire. He stated that Donna-Mae Litwiler was an ineffectual count board member, who would be a disaster as county clerk. Neal encouraged me to attack Litwiler as a political tool of Sheriff Babcox. The chairman assured me that he would extend support to Litwiler's primary opponent: Wauconda Village Clerk Venita L. McConnell. Both of us agreed that McConnell would win the party nomination for county clerk. (We were wrong.)

Do you know that your columnist, Dumb-Dumb Steinke, believed Bob Neal? My favorite song is: "What A Fool I Am." Suddenly, Chairman Neal was characterizing Babcox "as the greatest sheriff in the history of Lake County." Then Neal was the honorary chairman for Sheriff Babcox's political fund-raiser three days before the primary election. The event was utilized to promote Litwiler's candidacy for county clerk. At the same time, Neal refused to provide any assistance for McConnell. She had been a Neal loyalist, and a member of his political cabinet.

In my opinion, Neal abandoned McConnell in order to guarantee his reelection as county chairman with Babcox's support. Indeed, Neal won a third-term as party chieftain without any opposition. As my late grandfather used to say: "Let's look at the record." On April 26, 1984, William Haley of Antioch was convicted in a West Palm Beach Court of smuggling $450,000 worth of marijuana from Columbia to Florida. The Haleys are a prominent Republican family in Antioch. On May 22, 1984, Neal sent a letter to the court requesting a lenient sentence for Haley. The court sentenced Haley to 10 years in prison and fined him $25,000.

Under Neal's leadership, the Lake County Republican Party has gone to pot. In my judgement, the local party should adopt the following song: "Won't you come home Bill Haley? Won't you come home? We'll hit a joint for you." Why would Neal dispatch a message pleading for leniency for a convicted drug smuggler, and then desert a reasonable and intelligent candidate for the GOP nomination for Lake County Clerk? If you were Lake County Republican chairman, would you support a convicted dope pusher or a responsible party candidate?

Staff Attends Seminar

Lake County Museum staff members have participated in career related seminars. The ongoing goals to increase expertise in areas of Museology will enable the museum to reach its ultimate goal of receiving accreditation from the American Assn. of Museums.

Katherine Hamilton-Smith, curator of special collections of the Lake County Museum attended the three-day annual meeting of the Midwest Archives Conference in Chicago. Topics covered were computer related, exhibits, audio visual productions, oral history and archival collections.

Janet Gallimore-Smith, museum site manager and curator of collections participated in an educational program relating to conservation topics. The seminar held at the Laboratory of the Intermuseum Conservation Assn., Oberlin, Ohio is one of two programs presented yearly.

Thelma Shanks, public relations coordinator for the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. is attending a four-session, weekly seminar offered through the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The classes cover topics relating to techniques for supporting special events, programs and community relations programs.

Donald Strenger, president of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. stated, "The professionalism of the museum is attributed to the dedicated efforts of staff to keep abreast of latest technologies and practices. Staff members are willing to share their expertise and offer many fine programs for speaking engagements.

"Call the museum, (312) 526-7878 and arrange for a guest speaker for your next meeting."

Ground Covers Are Perfect

Ground covers are perfect for unifying a landscape, and one of the most vital elements for creating the ideal landscape—a setting in which all pieces blend together in a balanced and harmonious fashion.

Gardening experts agree that to avoid monotony every home landscape needs contrasts and accents. Using ground covers as focal points to capture the viewer's attention is an excellent way to break up expanses of green, for example, without upsetting the balanced plan you worked so hard to develop.

In the revised Ortho book, "All About Ground Covers," professional designers advise gardeners to look at ground covers with a discriminating eye. Here are a few questions to consider when you are using covers that drape, trail or climb:

- Does a particular plant look best at eye level?
- Is it better to look up or down at a certain cover?
- Will a plant grow well vertically rather than horizontally?

Remember that most plants will grow in as many ways as you let them, and it's fun and exciting to watch your plants' growth patterns when they are left to their own devices.

Scented, Soft Colored Roses Are Favorites

Delicately scented, softly colored and perfectly shaped, roses are favorites in the flower world, and for more reasons than meet the eye.

Behind the demurely blushing bloom of a rose is a powerhouse of a flower—a long, long-living plant that is practically immune to injury from the elements or from human error. This makes the rose plant relatively easy to grow, even for inexperienced gardeners.

Here are a few simple guidelines to follow for planting your barefoot or container rose plant. Ortho's new book, "All About Roses," is a useful guide for beginning planters.

How does your rose garden grow?

Your rose plant loves sunlight and water, so the wise gardener picks a site where the plant will receive at least six hours of morning sunlight, and preferably a day's worth.

Plant your bush away from large trees or shrubs, which compete with the plant for water and other nutrients and block sunlight.

Rose plants love water as much as sunlight, but they don't like standing around in the water hours on end, so pick a site that has adequate drainage or alter the site by terracing or building a raised bed.

"Prep" work

Roses aren't very picky about soil, but they do best in loamy soil with high humus content. Here is a "recipe" for an ideal soil, included in Ortho's new book:

5 parts (by volume) loamy soil;

4 parts organic matter, such as compost, leaf mold, dehydrated cow manure, peat moss or shredded bark (available at garden centers);

1 part builder's sand.

Now dig holes 14 to 26 inches wide and 12 to 25 inches deep. For a container plant, the hole should be several inches wider and deeper than the container.

Work the growing medium you prepared into the soil you have dug out. Some experts advise preparing the soil area three to six months in advance, according to "All About Roses."

Now that the groundwork is finished, you are almost ready to plant. There is just one more stage in the preparation process.

Start out right

Some plants dry out after storage and shipping to the retail outlet or mail-order house. To ensure the best possible start for your barefoot plant, either bury the roots and plant tops in wet peat moss for several days or bathe your plant overnight.

Then prune or cut the stems about 1/4 inch from the bud. You might also trim the roots to reveal the underlying white tissue.

One, two, three, plant!

Into the ground they go! Shape the soil in the hole into the shape of a cone and spread the root system of your rose plant over it. The bud union or knobby area above the roots and below the stem of your plant should rest two inches below the soil.

Loosely cover the plant with 2/3 of the soil, add water and then pack the remaining soil around the plant until it covers 2/3 of the plant.

This natural earth barrier protects the plant from the elements. After the plant has grown a few inches, remove the mound.

To plant a container rose, remove it from the container, place the rose in the hole, fill in with soil and pack the soil down tightly. Finally, saturate the area with water, and mulch to prevent rapid drying.

Continue to water the plant well. There is no need to build a protecting mound up around the plant because it has already grown a few inches.

'Spring Cleanups'

In support of the local area "Spring Cleanups," ARF Landfill Corp. in Grayslake will allow one dumpster to be disposed of at no charge to the surrounding villages of Grayslake, Mundelein, Libertyville, Round Lake and Gurnee.

Bushel Basket Good Enough

Garden without a garden. Sounds crazy, doesn't it? But if you've got enough room outside for a container the size of a bushel basket, you have enough room to grow some pretty impressive vegetables.

Many vegetables such as tomatoes, potatoes, eggplant and cauliflower do quite well when grown in containers on balconies, terraces and patios. You can use almost any type of container—a plastic garbage pail, wooden boxes or tubs, cans and so on—it doesn't really matter. What does matter however, is that the container is the right depth for the vegetables you're intending to grow.

According to the Ortho book, "All About Vegetables," a plant can grow successfully if its container has a certain minimum depth. Here are some minimum depths recommended by the Ortho book for vegetables that can be grown in containers:

- 4 inches deep—lettuce, turnips, radishes, beets and all the low-growing herbs;
- 6 inches deep—chard, kohlrabi, short carrots such as "Baby Finger" and the root crops listed above;
- 8 inches deep—bush beans, cabbage, eggplant, peppers and bush cucumbers;
- 10 inches deep—cauliflower, broccoli and brussels sprouts;
- 12 inches deep—parsnips, salsify, long-rooted carrots and tomatoes.

Aside from depth, the other major considerations when choosing a container are portability, fertilizing and watering. You will probably want to move your vegetable-growing container at some point, so keep it a manageable size. Bear in mind also that the more shallow a container, the more often it will need to be watered and fertilized.

Once you've selected an appropriate container for the vegetables you're planning to grow, the next step is to ensure that you get a maximum yield for the square feet you have available. In other words, get the most out of your containers by choosing vegetables that can be planted close together.

A planting chart will tell you which vegetables need only a small space between them. Beets, carrots and radishes are examples of vegetables that require a maximum of just two inches between plants.

US Climatic Varieties Make Predictions Hard

The variety of climatic conditions in the United States makes it almost impossible to provide an exact guide on what fruit trees will grow successfully in your area.

At times, conditions can fluctuate within the same town or even within the same garden to such a great degree that wise gardeners plan in terms of microclimates.

Your garden may have several microclimates. For example, an area with a wall that may be protecting your trees from the wind will have a microclimate warmer than an open area.

In a northern garden this may help a particular tree bear fruit whereas in a southern garden this may cause too much heat.

For detailed information, you should consult local nurseries or neighbors who could explain their success and failures. However, Ortho's newly revised book, "All About Fruits & Berries," offers some general guidelines on what you may be able to grow in your area.

The broad range of climates in the southern states makes it impossible to follow one rule for the whole region. Although it is safe to say that the South is a favored fruit growing region, you should know that damage may occur in winter and that the hot, moist summer may give you trouble with pests and diseases.

You may want to grow pears that resist fire blight, a bacterial infection that is at its worst in warm spring and fall weather, or peaches that are resistant to leaf spot and canker.

Tennessee and Kentucky, for example, are two states where cold winters are almost a certainty.

Apples and pears will do well there together with plums and sour cherries. However, apricots and sweet cherries may not be as plentiful especially if there's a fall or spring frost.

Citrus fruits should do well in gardens south of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, but damage and loss of the more tender plants usually occurs on a cycle of every 10 years. Replaced plants certainly can be fruit bearing again but you may have to wait a year or two.

In the northern states, extremely cold winters can seriously damage your garden. A lot depends though on whether the plant is dormant. A growing plant is not nearly as safe in a cold climate as one that is completely dormant. Ortho's book, "All About Fruits and Berries," suggests you plant your garden so that the cold air will flow downward and away from the fruit trees when warm spring days are followed by extremely cold nights.

To minimize the damage caused by severe north winds, you should put in evergreen trees as windbreaks. This is better than installing a fence because the wind can't flow over the top and attack the trees.

The Dandelion Is Most Colorful

Of the more than 25 types of common broadleaf weeds, the dandelion is the most colorful and one of the most difficult to control. This pesky weed appears almost overnight, after the first spring rainfall.

Not just child's play

Children may enjoy playing with the weed by blowing the plant's fragile seed pods into the air, but those seemingly delightful puffballs will wreak havoc on your lawn if left unchecked.

To successfully control dandelions, try Ortho's new ready-to-use WEED-B-GON Weed Killer. Today more people are interested in convenience, so Ortho Research developed a ready-to-use water-based formulation which contains the proven weed killers 24-D and MCPP. Gardening experts recommend spraying weeds while they are actively growing. One application of WEED-B-GON is usually sufficient; however, a repeat application may be required for hard-to-control weeds.

When using weed killers or any other chemical, it is important to know how each product will affect the other plants in your yard. WEED-B-GON, for example, is designed for use in lawns and should not be used in vegetable gardens, flower beds, or around shrubs or ornamental plants.

Follow instructions

Read all directions carefully. This product, for example, should not be applied when temperatures are expected to exceed 85°, or if you think it is going to rain within 24 hours of the initial application.

Cheaper To Grow Your Own

Today more than 40 million people enjoy raising vegetables in their backyards. Growing your own vegetables is cheaper than buying them at the local market. Your own produce will be fresher too, because it has not been left sitting on vegetable stands.

Plantings range in size from a single tomato plant, grown perhaps in a window box, to gardens one-half acre in size or even larger.

There is one thing all gardens have in common—insects! These plant pests come in all shapes and sizes, from tiny aphids to inch-long caterpillars to hard-to-control whiteflies. All appear in your garden with one thought in mind—to devour your fresh vegetables.

There are some practical, effective methods for controlling insects in smaller vegetable gardens or spot treating in larger ones.

Products such as Ortho Tomato & Vegetable Insect Killer, a ready-to-use formulation that requires no mixing or measuring, contains proven organic insecticides like pyrethins and synergist piperonyl butoxide for quicker knock-down. This type of product may be applied right up to harvest time on 18 listed crops.

To find out which insects affect your area, check with your county agricultural agent or send for the free 50-page booklet, "Insects and Diseases of Vegetables in Home Gardens," Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C.

When using insecticides on vegetables, check the label to find the number of days before harvest to stop spraying. This varies according to specific vegetables.

A Good Start Is Very Important

Getting off to a good start is important in practically every aspect of life. Growing your first outdoor garden is no exception.

When spring rolls around each year, gardeners from coast to coast begin preparations for what they hope will be a successful planting year. But handling fledgling plants, vegetables, and flowers with tender loving care is more than just a cliché—it is a necessity.

Start preparing for your first gardening efforts at the ground floor. Actually, you must go even lower than that in order to care for the fragile root system of your plants.

From woody shrubs to succulent annuals, root development is the key ingredient for the good fortune of outdoor foliage. When roots do not grow rapidly enough, the rest of the plant will most likely suffer an untimely demise.

Agronomists have found that phosphorus is an effective stimulus for root growth and the overall vigor of new plants.

Studies have also determined that during the spring, when most planting is initiated each year, the level of phosphorus in the ground is at its lowest.

This means that new plants must receive additional phosphorus or they most likely will not develop to their full potential.

Luckily for plant lovers, there is a variety of garden products available on the market to supplement a new plant's phosphorus level. Some of these products, like Ortho's UPSTART Root Stimulator, also contain significant levels of nitrogen to aid in the support of plant top growth.

Application of root stimu-lators is simple. Most can be poured directly into the planting hole and then over the soil once the roots have been covered.

These products are also effective with bulbs. You should use caution with bulbs, however.

A thin layer of soil is required between the seed and the fertilizer in order to prevent root burn.

County Students, Parents Attend Conference

Over 375 Lake County students and parents attended the first Teen Leadership Conference held at the Illinois Beach Resort and Conference Center on the Lakefront in Zion. Students who attended the conference were from

Waukegan East and West High Schools, North Chicago, Zion-Benton, Antioch, Wauconda, Round Lake, Grayslake, Warren, Grant, Libertyville, and Woodland Junior High School. Agencies which also had representatives in attendance were Barrington Youth Services, Greenhouse, Lakeshore, Allendale, Family Service Agency and Cradle Society.

David Gates of the Family Counseling Service in Grayslake began the day's program with an inspiring keynote address setting the tone for the conference: "Searching For Answers."

John Chrisman, Zion Police Dept. liaison officer assigned to Zion-Benton High School, sparked a lot of discussion among the young people with his comments regarding the involvement of music and its affects on people. Chrisman was the presenter in the workshop on cults and gangs.

JoAnn Griffin of the In-Touch Program and Tony

Lindsey of the Lake County Health Dept.'s Substance Abuse Program challenged the conference attendees to help those needing assistance find it.

Larnie Jones, social worker/case manager with Family Focus-"Our Place" in Evanston, addressed the topic of teen sexuality. A videotape presentation helped to highlight the need for responsibility.

Sally Hauck, project coordinator of the Positive Alternative Services for Students (PASS) Program for the regional superintendent of schools, conducted an open forum workshop on employment and education. Jimmie Washington of the Private Industry Council covered tips on seeking employment.

Just prior to lunch, a program on Alternatives For Teens was presented with Anne Strahan, Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Youth Program coordinator, serving as moderator. Area teens gave short presentations on Lake County Operation Snowball, Project Graduation, People Against Crime and Drugs (PACD) Youth Alliance; and Peer Counseling by Barrington Youth Services and students from North Chicago Community High School.

Several students attending the workshops presented reports on their specific workshop during the wrap up, which concluded the day.

The conference was presented through the sponsorship of a grant from the Illinois Parents Too Soon Program. A conference planning board made up of representatives from Lake County high schools, social service agencies, concerned parents and students, under the chairmanship of Barbara Gordon, Lake County Community Action Project (LCCAP) executive director, planned and coordinated the day's event. LCCAP also served as the sponsoring agency for the conference.

Women In Government Hold First Meeting

by VIRGINIA M. KRUEGER
Attendees at the first meeting of "Lake County Women Officials In Government," were welcomed by State Rep. Virginia Fredrichs.

Fredrichs introduced Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis, who during the invocation, asked that assistance be given to women in government, presently, and in the future. All women officials in Lake County Government had been invited to the meeting which was held May 10 at the Country Squire Restaurant in Grayslake. After lunch, Sue Gravenhorst, University of Illinois trustee, introduced State Rep. Jane Barnes.

"It's not easy being a woman and trying to become an elected official," said Barnes. "It's good to have women in public office," she continued, "not that men are not dedicated, but often their priorities are different." She cited several issues, mainly concerning women, and seemed to feel that although men may sympathize with these issues, they don't always give the "push" to get them put through!

For instance, when women hear about rape, wife and child abuse or perhaps negligence in paying child support, they become angry enough to want to try to do what they can to protect others from such injustices. Not meaning to pick on men, Barnes hastened to add, "It takes supportive men to help women achieve."

Another guest speaker was Barbara Richardson, Lake County Coroner, who spoke on the symbolism of "Wings." "Starting today," Richardson addressed the audience, "you and I are ready to soar, ready to use our 'wings' and take off in government! (Name tags for the day were in the shapes of wings.) We will 'wing' our way to new opportunities."

Other speakers included:

Verna Clayton, president, Buffalo Grove Village Board; Faith Boettcher, Libertyville Twp. Clerk; Eleanor Rostron, Waukegan County Board Member; Evelyn Alexander, Dist. 123 School Board; Barbara Monsor, Lake Bluff Precinct Committeewoman; Betty Niemi, assessor, Grant Twp.; and Sue Grovenhorst, trustee, University of Illinois, Lake Forest.

The positions of these ladies, as you can see, are really diversified. In many cases they spoke of both men and women already in politics (frequently of the opposite party), who had taken the time to "give of themselves" in helping these women attain their goals. This, they explained, was to be the purpose of forming a "Wing" group. As Barnes had stated, "This is to be a non-partisan support group so, in no way, will we endorse any one party. Said Niemi, "We want all women to know they are welcome to join 'Women in Government' and give their input or perhaps, just enjoy being educated about politics."

The meeting room had been set up with round tables, each seating 10 women. There were no seating assignments, other than those at the speakers table, so Republicans and Democrats were literally thrown together. Ladies at each table introduced themselves to one another and enjoyed pleasant luncheon conversation, not knowing, nor seemingly caring, about the political affiliations of their table mates.

Women were asked to vote, by a show of hands, if they would be in favor of such a group as "Wing" being formed. Fees would be $25 for charter members, it was announced. From where this writer was seated, the vote appeared unanimous for "Wing." Each woman was asked to sign a paper to this effect and to suggest when she felt would be a good time to hold the next meeting.

The significant thread that seemed to wind through each speaker's presentation, as she told how she initially became involved in politics, was the fact that each of the women had been active in their communities before seeking further commitment in civic affairs. This brought to mind the old adage: "When you want something done, ask a busy person to do it."

McRee To Take Over

In formal change-of-command ceremonies to be held at 10 a.m. on May 21, the leadership of Headquarters Fort Sheridan will be transferred from Col. Stanley E. Thomas to Col. Marshall R. McRee, who will become the 75th commander of the 99-year-old Army post.

McRee assumes command after duties as assistant chief of staff and deputy chief of staff for logistics with Fourth U.S. Army Headquarters since last September. Col. Thomas will become commander of Readiness Group-Redstone Arsenal at Redstone Arsenal, Ala. He has commanded Fort Sheridan Headquarters since Nov. 7, 1983.

Lt. Gen. Edward C. Peter, commanding general of Fourth U.S. Army Headquarters at Fort Sheridan, will be host for the May 21 ceremonies. The Fourth Army Band will perform and several troop units will parade. The public program will be held on the post parade ground. In the event of inclement weather, ceremonies will be held in the nearby post gymnasium.

Col. McRee, a native of Newton, N.C., graduated from the Citadel, Charleston, S.C. and was commissioned as a field artillery officer in June 1961. His first assignment was at Fort Rucker, Ala., where he served with the 31st Infantry Regiment.

Marshall McRee

During his 25 years in the Army, McRee has served two tours in Vietnam, commanded a field artillery battalion in Germany, commanded the 214th Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Sill, Okla. and served in numerous staff assignments.

Col. McRee is a graduate of the Army Command and General Staff College and the Army War College. He holds a masters degree in rehabilitation counseling from Central Arkansas University, Conway, Ark.

Col. McRee and his wife Pat are residents of Fort Sheridan. Their two daughters, Stephanie and Tracy, are college students.

Currently, Fort Sheridan is staffed by 1400 active duty soldiers, augmented by about 1700 civilian specialists and technicians. Approximately 1450 military family members are residents of Fort Sheridan.

Third Most Collected Item

by GARY S. MEYERS

Baseball cards are the third most collected item in America, right behind coins and stamps. Investments here can be very small, but profits can run 200 to 300 percent.

"Kids of all ages collect and trade cards. Famous collectors include Gary Carter (N.Y. Mets catcher), Chico Rush and Jerry Sloan (former Chicago Bulls guard)," said Bruce Gold, manager of A U Sports Memorabilia, a Chicago baseball card dealer. "It only takes 35 cents to start a collection, but the more you invest, the more your investment can grow."

The value of baseball cards is determined by supply and demand, who the player is, and the card's condition.

To have real value, most cards have to be in mint condition. This means that the card is in the same condition as new, when it first came out of the package. It can have no creases, no folds and both front and back should be centered, and of course no sticky bubble gum.

Currently, the most valuable cards are Mickey Mantle, from any year, and the Pete Rose Rookie card. In 1979 the Rose Rookie card was worth $5. Now it is worth $400. Mantle can drive in between $250 and $400.

A Willie Mays Rookie card (1952) is worth between $450 and $500, while Hank Aaron's Rookie card (1954) is worth $175.

Rookie cards in general are the most valuable because they are a gamble, like the rookies themselves.

Sets of cards also have value. The number of cards in a set depends on the manufacturer. There are only three manufacturers of baseball cards. The largest, Tops Baseball Cards, has been in business since the early 1950's. The other two manufacturers are Donruss and Fleer.

Fleer suspended production in the mid-1960s and resumed in 1981. Donruss, the late comer to the field, began printing in 1981.

In a Tops set there are 792 cards, consisting of one card for each player in the league, plus additional "collectors cards," including fathers and sons who played major league baseball.

Tops issues an updated set at the end of the season that adjusts for trades and players that have been brought up from the minor leagues. (The 1984 updated set is more valuable than the original because of Dwight Gooden. His Rookie Card is included in the updated set. It is already worth $6.)

A Tops' set currently sells for $20. The Donruss Highlight Set is selling for $35, because they limited production to create demand. Most collectors buy already completed collected sets. The alternative, buying packs of gum, would cost between $40 and $50 to try and collect a complete set.

Marianne Sorn, manager of Family Coins, a Chicago dealer in collector's items, speculates that Donruss will continue to limit production on future sets.

During the first seven years or so the appreciation on sets is slow, but then they move.

"For the first seven years, you can expect to see only about a 20 percent profit," said Bruce Gold.

One notable exception is the 1975 Tops set, which includes the Rookie cards of many superstars like George Brett and Keith Hernandez. In 1975 the set cost $7.50; ten years later it is worth $250. That's a 3,233 percent appreciation in value (unadjusted for inflation).

OTHER WAYS TO COLLECT. Besides sets, collectors follow a player's career, or they can buy and trade for all the players for a single team for a few seasons in a row.

Fraud happens more often than dealers would like because baseball cards are fairly easy to reproduce. But, counterfeits are also pretty easy to detect. The most recent fraud was an attempt to fake the Pete Rose Rookie Card. However, it was a little greenish in color and off center.

To buy new baseball cards you just go into the corner drug or candy store. For older cards, there are card shows every week and regional and national conventions. You can also find what you want through ads in the publications and magazines for baseball card collectors and at auctions.

The most valuable cards are sold at auctions, where their prices may greatly fluctuate.

In the late 19th century and the early 20th century all kinds of manufacturers made baseball cards. These cards still are traded, but because the vintage cards are so rare, few people can afford to collect them (i.e. the supply is limited but so is the demand).

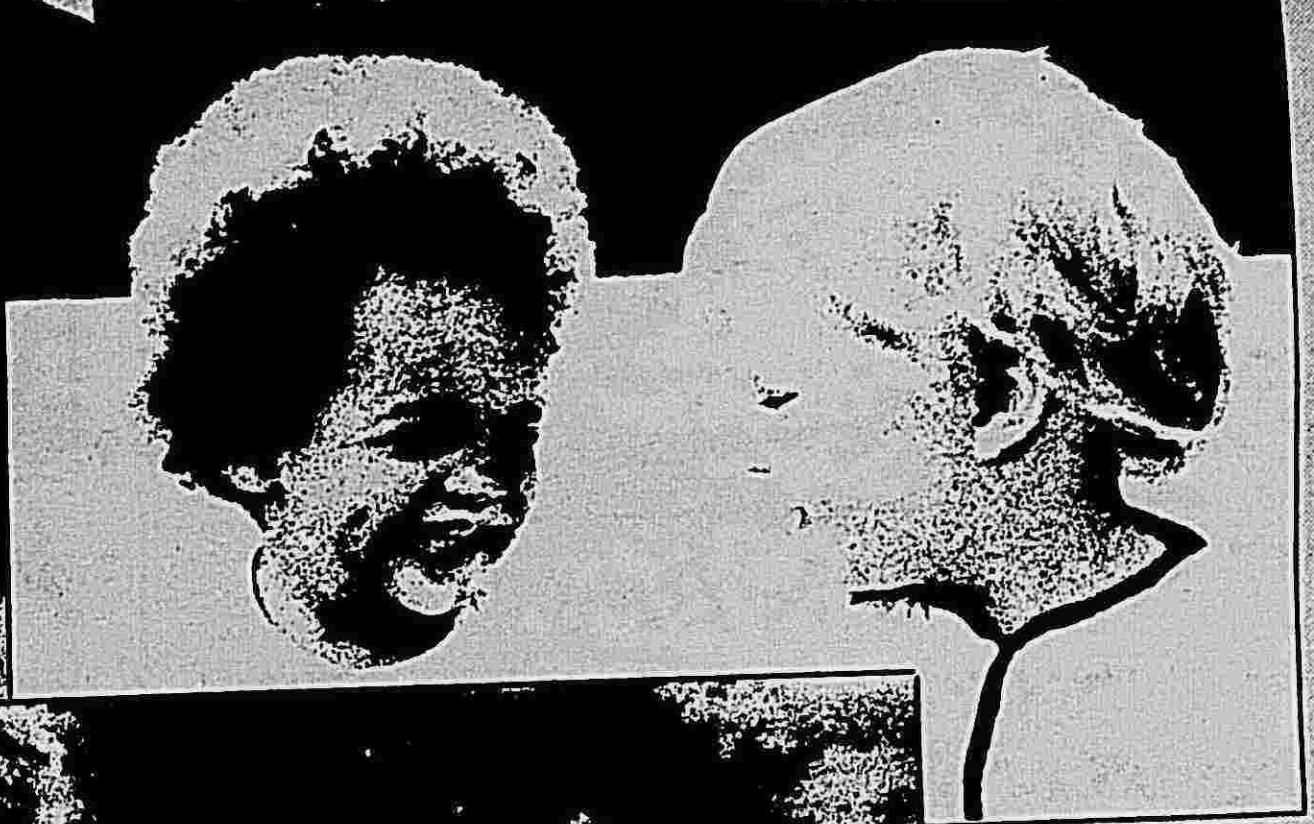

A baseball collector's price guide is available from Edgewater Book Co. Inc. in Cleveland, Ohio.

There are two annual publications, the Sports America Baseball Card Price Guide goes back to the 1800s. It retails for $11.95. The other publication only goes back to 1952 and costs $4.95. In addition, Beckett Publishers provides the Beckett Baseball Card Monthly, costing $2.50, giving news and updates on the prices.

Time To Reflect Hospitals' Role

by KENNETH C. ROBBINS
(President Illinois Hospital Assn.)

This is Hospital Week nationally and in Illinois.

It is an appropriate time for us to reflect on our hospitals and the role they play in our lives and the contributions they make to our communities.

Most of us are born in hospitals. Most of us will spend our final hours in a hospital bed. In between, we experience some of life's greatest joys—and sorrows—in a hospital environment.

When we are not in need of the care they provide, we may tend to take hospitals for granted, as we do other necessities of life. We rarely consider what it would be like without them.

Because they are always there.

But these days nothing can be taken for granted, least of all our health care institutions. For they are under attack.

During the prosperous and optimistic days of the 1950s and 1960s, we granted to the poor and the elderly—the most vulnerable among us—the right to health care under the Medicaid and Medicare programs.

And we expanded the health care delivery system to meet this compassionate social objective. We invested in bricks and mortar, and in technology—and in the final analysis, in people.

And we reaped wonderful social rewards in human terms. We live longer. The quality of life is improved. Infant mortality rates have been halved. The gap of lifespan between socio-economic classes is narrowed. Diseases which once plagued us are gone.

But in the economic turbulence of the 1970s, we began to question every major allocation of social resources, including our health care investment. We began as a society to tighten the lid.

We put cost-containment at the top of our priority list for public policy on health care. Access to care and quality of care were relegated to a lesser status.

At the national level, we put limits on what we would pay for services to the elderly. In Illinois, we see tight contracts for discounted rates and more limited choices for the poor. Similar arrangements were replicated in the private sector, squeezing our health resources to the limit.

The pendulum has swung swiftly and relentlessly toward cost containment—and away from concerns for access and quality of care.

What have we achieved? On the positive side, we have saved millions of dollars for Illinois' taxpayers and health care consumers. Admission rates and lengths of stay are down; provision of care in low-cost outpatient settings is dramatically increased. We have created a leaner health care system.

But nothing is gained for nothing.

In down-scaling our health care system, we have put 25,000 hospital employees out of work—in Illinois alone—since 1982. And we have strained the ability of our hospitals to provide services.

We have become accustomed to the hospitals of this state providing $300 million to $400 million in care every year to the medically indigent—those not destitute enough or old enough to qualify for government-paid care, but unable to meet their own needs.

Hospitals are today hard-pressed to meet their mission of providing care to all who need it regardless of ability to pay. Some hospitals in Illinois have closed their doors. Others can be expected to follow.

There is concern all about for the quality of care our institutions are able to provide, about the possibility that our elderly are released from hospitals in a "quicker but being forced by economic pressures to be sicker condition."

Upon analysis, these fears seem groundless today. But they reflect an understanding that when the pressure increases, the most vulnerable of us are the ones who will be squeezed out of the health care system.

Think about our hospitals this week. They have been with us always. But the tension of today's debate about access and quality-versus-cost containment has made vulnerable and uncertain that which we have come to take for granted. The assumption that when we need them most, hospitals will be there. Actions we take today will determine the validity of that assumption tomorrow.

Research Indicates Foods Protect Your Teeth

New research indicates that certain foods may be protective to your teeth—that is, they inhibit the formation of acids that cause cavities.

"Milk and all milk products afford a certain amount of this protection," says Dr. John J. Hefferen, director of the American Dental Assn. Health Foundation Institute. "Milk on cereal inhibits the acid-forming potential of the cereal. If you must eat sweets between meals, wash them down with a glass of milk."

Of all the milk products, certain cheeses afford the most protection to the teeth. Says Hefferen, "Recent research has shown that Swiss cheese and Monterey Jack may counter the effects of acids produced by plaque. Best of all is aged cheddar, perhaps because its sharp taste promotes saliva flow." There appear to be other decay-inhibiting ingredients in these cheeses, and researchers are currently investigating these and other "protective" foods.

At present, dental researchers agree that certain categories of foods cause cavities. "We'll soon know more," says Dr. William E. Rogers, chief of the Caries and Restorative Materials Branch of the National Institute of Dental Research. "In three or four years we'll know the cavity-causing potential of a wide variety of natural foods. As for packaged foods, we'll be able to test them and perhaps label certain products 'Safe For Teeth,' as the Swiss do."

Of course, good dental health depends on more than diet. Brush teeth thoroughly at least once a day with a fluoride toothpaste, and preferably after each meal. Floss teeth daily to remove plaque around the gumline, and visit the dentist regularly.

A key nutrient to dental health is calcium. Children and adolescents need extra calcium to ensure the formation of strong, healthy teeth. But pregnant women need extra calcium, too, to ensure the proper development of their unborn babies' teeth.

The need for extra calcium diminishes after adolescence, but emerges again later in life. In fact, calcium deficiency is one cause of osteoporosis, a disease characterized by loss of bone density. Osteoporosis affects 25 percent of white women over 65 years of age and 10 percent of men. The end result is brittle bones that break easily. Some researchers believe that osteoporosis of the jawbone may cause tooth loss and problems in the fitting of dentures.

Dairy products are the richest sources of calcium, but fruits and vegetables also contain some calcium, especially kale, collard greens and spinach. Canned salmon and sardines with edible bones are excellent nondairy sources.

Think Before Snacking

If one must snack, here are some tips:

Avoid sticky foods. Raisins, dates, figs, bananas, dried fruits, and chewy candies such as caramels and toffee cling to teeth, and as long as particles remain on the teeth, the acid attack will continue.

Because they remain in the mouth, hard candies, cough drops and breath mints prolong an acid attack, as does the frequent consumption of soft drinks. If you must consume soft drinks, choose the sugar-free variety; artificial sweeteners are harmless to teeth.

Between meals, it's best to choose nonsugary, nonstarchy snacks. Fruits and raw vegetables, cheese, hardboiled eggs, leftover cooked meat, peanuts, olives, cottage cheese, and yogurt are excellent choices.

Volunteer Work Aids Rehabilitation

by SUSAN MONTGOMERY

He says he can't do all that he used to, but for others at Condell Hospital, Chris Hinrichsen is like a God-send.

The 34-year-old Mundelein resident volunteers at the hospital four days a week helping out wherever he is most needed. The work keeps him running between the medical records and physical therapy departments where he files records to doing repair work on wheelchairs.

Those working in the hospital's volunteer services office are thankful not only for the number of hours Hinrichsen donates, but also for the sense of humor and warm, friendly attitude he exudes.

"He has a wonderful sense of humor," said Mary Francoeur, the hospital's volunteer services director. "He sees whatever work needs to be done, and goes ahead and does it."

Considering the obstacles he has overcome during the past few years, it's clear that his work as a volunteer holds a special place in Hinrichsen's life.

to prove those predictions wrong. Through extensive physiotherapy at the Rehabilitation Institute in Chicago, he worked to regain the use of his legs and his ability to speak which had also been impaired during the accident.

Nine months ago, he approached Francoeur with the idea of designing his own volunteer program at Condell, an arrangement which both see as mutually beneficial. For himself, Hinrichsen not only enjoys the daily interaction with the hospital staff, but is also in a setting that requires him to practice communication skills.

"Volunteering gives me a sense of fulfillment," he said, adding, "It's like an extension of my old job."

With that type of determination, says Condell's speech pathologist, Kim Broy, Hinrichsen has made remarkable progress in relearning how to articulate certain sounds.

While Hinrichsen's speaking ability continues to improve, Broy noted that the

As far as Hinrichsen's ability to communicate with the staff, both Broy and Francoeur chuckled.

"The thing is that Chris has such a wonderful sense of humor and an outstanding vocabulary. He catches you off guard when you're not expecting him to make a joke," Francoeur said.

One such example is when Hinrichsen described the frustration he feels when the rehabilitative process seems to be moving too slowly.

"There is more than one way to skin the cat," he joked. "If I can't figure out how to do something one way, there are other avenues I can take," he said.

Feelings of frustration on the part of both the family and patient are quite normal, Broy reassured. In some cases, a patient may go through behavioral changes which are not always understood by the family.

From time to time during his rehabilitation, Hinrichsen still goes through short periods of frustration. The emotional strain is part of the normal adjustment process a patient may experience, Broy said.

Patience, Hinrichsen believes, has helped guide him through the difficult process. "I can't do all I used to do. (The accident) has made me slow down," he said.

But, he added, not taking the easy way out, and setting goals for himself have helped him to readjust. "And I've still got this," he said, pointing to his head.

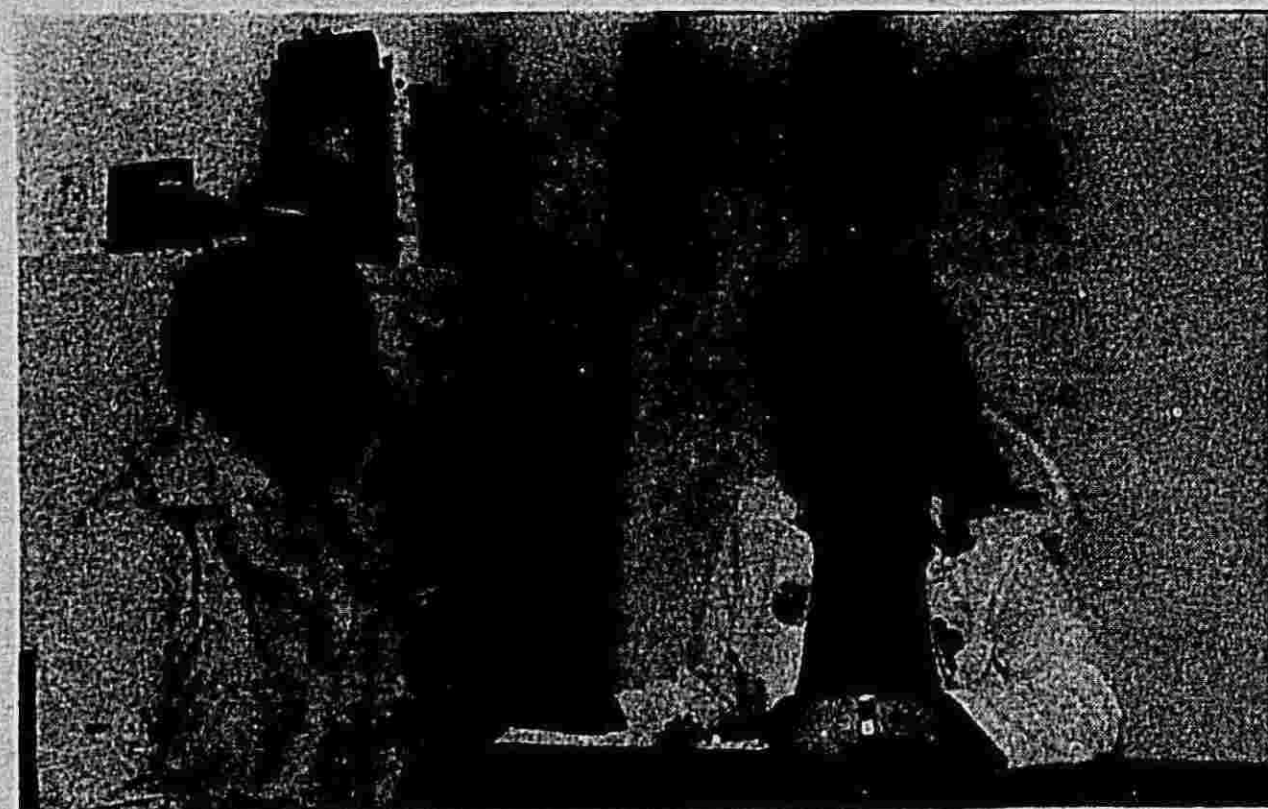

His independence and clearly ambitious approach toward rehabilitation has won the admiration of other hospital employees.

With a twinkle in his eye, Hinrichsen confessed that he is still a ladies' man, a remark that again drew a chuckle from Francoeur.

"I never told Chris this story before," she starts out, "but the day he arrived, some other employees were going to take him to lunch. But he disappeared and I became concerned when we couldn't find him."

"I eventually found him in the cafeteria surrounded by a group of women," she laughed.

While Hinrichsen emphasized that "anyone could fit in" that setting, Francoeur admitted Hinrichsen's special type of volunteer program would be difficult to duplicate.

Volunteer At Work

Mundelein resident Chris Hinrichsen (left) takes time out of a hectic day as a volunteer at Condell Memorial Hospital in Libertyville to work with Condell's Speech Pathology Dir. Kim Broy on developing language skills to help overcome a speech difficulty resulting from a car accident. Hinrichsen now volunteers four days a week at the hospital.

Three years ago, Hinrichsen, then an ambitious advertising executive in Chicago, was severely injured in a car accident that left him in a coma for nine weeks. When he finally regained consciousness, doctors had little hope of him ever walking again.

Hinrichsen's determination prevailed. Over the next several months, he set out most radical progress is generally made between the first three to six months following an accident.

"You have to remember, though, that he started with nothing," she said. From that extreme to being able to understand what people are saying to producing single words and phrases, communication skills continue to progress, she said.

To Introduce New Series At Condell Hospital May 19

"Stepping Out," a new series of mother/baby exercise classes will be introduced by Condell Memorial Hospital beginning with the first session, Monday, May 19, at The Family Health Center...Hawthorn at Six Phillip Rd., Vernon Hills.

In response to numerous requests, the hospital designed the program specially for babies, four to nine months of age. The classes will be taught by physical therapists with backgrounds in early child development and obstetrics/gynecology.

This program provides an opportunity to stimulate a baby's normal development in an atmosphere of education and fun. Special baby massage techniques promote bonding with the parent and enhance body awareness. A variety of exercises also will help the mother improve muscle tone after childbirth while facilitating baby's physical coordination.

Classes will meet for six weeks from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., Monday and Thursday. The cost of this program is $40. The first session held May 10 will be a free introductory class.

Enrollment will be limited. To register, call the physical therapy department at (312) 680-1092.

SETTING THE PACE IN HEALTH CARE

Word Of Mouth Leads People To Hospitals

by GLORIA DAVIS

When people move into a new area, the location of the nearest and best hospital and a physician's and dentist's office are two of the first things they look for besides schools, shopping and churches.

Some procrastinators wait until they are in need of immediate medical attention and then rush to the emergency entrance of the closest hospital or medical center. A practice which can prove to be rather expensive in the long run, insurance or no insurance.

The more organized talk to neighbors, people they work with (if they are employed near home), or call the local village or town hall or local Chamber of Commerce.

Most municipalities do not like to recommend a physician because everyone has their own wants and need in that vein and they are not a medical referral service.

Normally a general medical practitioner is found first and then the hospital choice becomes a particular one or more, depending on where their chosen doctor is on staff.

People usually prefer to frequent the closest hospital in their area, all things being equal and the doctor of their choice is on the staff of more than one hospital.

A close hospital is preferred in case of emergency and for the convenience of family visitors if some member is hospitalized.

Contacting local Chambers of Commerce which may have doctors in their memberships, getting a hold of the area Welcome Wagon representative who might have those little helpful bits of information right at their fingertips, are two other avenues that can be pursued.

Many towns and villages have clubs devoted to welcoming new people such as the Newcomers Club of Lake Villa Twp. Representatives of that club claim that they seldom get a request for this kind of information since most people depend on word of mouth.

Besides the advertising in local newspapers that doctors do now, one of the best places to get the name of a physician is by calling the Lake County Physician Referral Service at (312) 680-9530.

A short explanation of one's medical needs will bring a list of doctors, their locations and phone numbers.

A more impersonal way to choose both a doctor and a hospital is to check the yellow pages of the local phone book, although the doctors and hospitals that have names that start with the first letters of the alphabet get most of that business.

Area newspapers are filled with press releases sent out by hospitals telling of the extracurricular services offered.

This often draws the attention of the new people on the block.

But the way most newcomers choose medical services is still through the personal recommendation of a new found friend.

Health Clinic Accommodates Lake Countians

Lake County finally has a health clinic that can take care of the whole family's health needs quickly, easily, with no hassle in one stop. From family practice to cardiovascular surgery, from pediatrics to chiropractic, from preventive dentistry to oral surgery — North Point Medical and Dental Center has doctors ready to help; all one has to do is reach for the phone and dial (312) 872-8722.

William Relyea, M.D., is a general surgeon specializing in family health care and gynecology. Dr. Relyea has been in family practice for 25 years and understands the almost daily attention a family needs for good health.

Two pediatricians are in the clinic to help children from infancy through adolescence, whether it be for vaccination, school physicals, the sniffles or allergies. Dr. Albino Bismonte, Jr., and Dr. Nenita Sacolo provide excellent pediatric care. TLC is their specialty. According to Dr. Bismonte, "When we treat a child, we help the mother, the father, the grandparents — we are helping the whole family. It is the family we treat."

Dr. Bismonte's arrival at the clinic is a return to Zion where he started his practice 15 years ago. "I'm very glad to be coming home," said Bismonte, "especially to such a fine place as this."

Good health comes in many forms and one of those is the skeletal and muscular manipulation of the chiropractor. Dr. James Rosenberg specializes in sports injuries as well as the physical difficulties of youth and age. "I enjoy working with older people because chiropractic is an effective means of keeping them mobile, and reducing pain," Dr. Rosenberg says, "while working with young people gives me the opportunity to prevent future complications by correcting problems before they become permanent. Chiropractic has a very important place in medical care."

Heart disease is still the biggest health problem in the United States. Dr. Timothy Ryan, board-certified general surgeon with specialty training in vascular surgery, works with patients in preventing strokes and heart disease. Dr. Ryan, for example, can do a complete vascular screening non-invasively. Dr. Ryan has also perfected a new procedure for eliminating varicose veins without surgery. The procedure is simple, quick, painless, and inexpensive. It is a long overdue solution to a nagging and unsightly problem.

Complete dental care is provided by Drs. Gorchow and Cimmarusti. Dr. Gorchow speaks positively of the thorough work of his dental team. "We explain every detail to our patients and then decide together the treatment they will receive from us." Possible procedures include fillings, crowns, bridges, root canal therapy, periodontal therapy, bonding and cosmetic dentistry, and minor orthodontics.

Judy Gray, M.S., N.T., is a fully qualified and experienced nutritionist. Judy works closely with the doctors in analyzing blood and urine samples for possible diet deficiencies. She also works on a one-to-one basis with patients in the treatment of such problems as osteoporosis, PMS (premenstrual syndrome), as well as ordinary dietary problems. She says, "People are often surprised at how much better they feel when they make a few simple changes in eating habits." Recently Gray worked with the Zion-Benton basketball team on a nutritional program designed to help players with stamina and proper diet.

North Point is the first total care outpatient clinic in the area, according to Robert Mayo, clinic administrator. "The governing board of this affiliate of American International Hospital gave us the resources and instructed me to put together the most aggressive health care clinic for the people of northeast Illinois. The care you receive here at the clinic, as well as the hospital, is unmatched anywhere," said Mayo. "This organization is finally getting the recognition it deserves as a health care provider, responsive to the needs of the people it serves."

Dr. Rosenberg eases muscular tension for a patient.

Dr. Bismonte communicates with children in their own language.

Athletes Keep The Foot Doctor Very Busy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following information has been provided by Dr. Jack Chulengarian with offices located in Grayslake and Waukegan.)

The human foot is a marvelous instrument and when in perfect alignment and balance, there is no feat of endurance which it cannot handle, even on a regular basis. However, structural imbalance even in minute degrees can result in persistent injuries and incapacitating disability. Prevention of sports injuries is best accomplished through alignment and balance of the musculoskeletal structures, beginning with the foot. Many times an injury is preceded by the wearing down of a regular training shoe. Changing shoe gear can also cause difficulties as can a change in activity surface.

Shin splints is generally referred to as an over-use injury in which the muscles on the front of the leg are microscopically pulled away from their bony attachments resulting in pain. This inflammatory process can occur in any sport and is usually seen in unconditioned athletes, a change in footwear, an increase in jumping, a change in sports events or repetitive running on a hard surface. Treatment consists of ice massage and is particularly important after exercise. Workouts should be limited to pain tolerance and carried out on a soft surface. Most long-term cases of shin splints are an indication of a foot imbalance.

Another sports related injury to the foot is commonly referred to as a stress fracture. It is usually caused by repetitive trauma on a portion of bone causing a hairline break. Pain and swelling of the foot is gradual, but aggravated by activity and relieved by rest. Although x-rays taken at the time of trauma may fail to reveal a fracture, healing of the bone will be seen in x-rays taken approximately three weeks later. Treatment consists of reducing activity and supportive taping of the foot. In most cases of stress fracture, this treatment will allow healing of the fracture.

Strains are a tear in a ligament from overstretching or the forcing of a joint through a wider range of motion than it is capable. The inversion sprain is the most common and is caused by a turning inward of the ankle joint and hyperextension of the ligaments on the outside of the ankle. If you sustain an injury that requires medical attention, stay off it until it can be examined by a doctor, especially if you hear a "snap" or tear. The ankle should be packed in ice immediately to reduce bleeding and swelling. Your podiatrist will take x-rays of your ankle to be sure there are no fractured bones. He will examine the area for any ruptured ligaments or tendons. Should he determine a sprain, you will probably be instructed in a treatment regimen to include rest, ice, compression and elevation of the ankle and, if necessary, medication to reduce pain and inflammation. In some cases, complete immobilization is necessary.

The purpose of the Achilles tendon is to connect the muscles in the calf of the leg to the heel. This tendon is often a source of injury because of its location and function. Strain is a common injury. Occasionally, chronic strain may result in calcification within the tendon. The Achilles is the most common tendon in the foot and ankle region to rupture spontaneously, often because of unaccustomed strenuous physical activity. There is a sudden sharp pain in the back of the ankle and, sometimes, an audible sound. Ice should be applied immediately and the patient should use crutches until he is examined by a podiatrist.

Pain beneath the heel bone or within the arch area of the foot is an extremely common and often debilitating condition. Pain in the heel of the foot is usually a result of direct or indirect trauma (a constant and repetitive irritation which progresses in severity without treatment). This kind of pain is usually attributable to swelling around the nerve on the bottom of the heel. This swelling may also be due to a heel spur or a pinched nerve. Pain across the bottom of the foot can be a symptom of a stretched ligament. Sometimes heel and arch pain is a combination of all three. The first step in treatment can be tried at home. Often relief can be attained by padding the area with a soft foam rubber material, shoes with a thick rubber heel and ice against the bottom of the heel to reduce swelling. If these measures fail, it is time to consult your podiatrist. Initial treatment is directed at relieving the symptoms. Often this is accomplished with new non-cortisone oral medications. Sometimes injection of medications directly into the heel or sprained ligament is necessary for relief of symptoms. Other measures consist of relieving the strain of the heel and arch by means of padding, taping or use of a prescription orthotic device.

We see the athlete as a special breed and feel that his foot and ankle problems should receive special attention. It is our intention to keep the athlete active in his sport while protecting him from further injury. Proper equipment and training, along with some simple precautions, can minimize the risks involved.

Illinois Hospitals Prove Cost-Efficient

Sixty-five years ago, a hospital magazine editor, Matthew A. Foley, established National Hospital Day "so that the community may know its hospital."

This year, during National Hospital Week, May 11-17, hospitals throughout the United States will reaffirm their community responsibilities, using the theme, "Hospitals Make Healthy Neighbors."

Illinois hospitals, however, have proved to be cost-efficient as well as healthy neighbors. According to recent Illinois Hospital Assn. (IHA) statistics, hospitals in this state are continuing to contain costs at levels that are well below the national average.

During the 1985 calendar year, the cost to patients for an average stay in an Illinois hospital increased 5.5 percent.

That cost compares with an 8.9 percent increase nationwide. In 1985, patients also spent less time in hospitals. The average length of stay for an inpatient was 6.82 days, a 2.2 percent decrease from 1984. Length of stay decreased 3 percent nationwide.

In addition, an increased interest in receiving medical care in low-cost environments is also evident from IHS statistics. During 1985, outpatient visits in Illinois increased 13 percent.

Naprapath Trained To Analyze Imbalances

Naprapathy is a scientific system of manipulation designed to release tension in the muscles and ligaments which "hold in balance" and support the spinal column. This science originated in 1906. Because muscle and ligament problems are not detectable by x-ray or other impersonal technical tests, the naprapath is highly trained to analyze softer connective tissue imbalances by physical testing.

Through various forms of trauma, i.e., falls, slips, strained lifting, poor posture, sudden blows to the spine, etc., the muscles and ligaments become contracted and spasmed, placing the entire body in a state of imbalance, like a "wet rag" which has been rung or twisted. This puts pressure on or "pinches" the delicate nerves which pass between these structures from this spinal of other joint area.

Because the nervous system is the supreme coordinator of all bodily functions, it is understandable that any irritation to these nerves could possibly cause physiological disturbances to the area where these "pinched" nerves lead.

The naprapath has the knowledge and training to detect these contracted "knotted" muscles and ligaments and to release their points of tension; thus eliminating discomfort now, and possible problems that could arise in the future.

Dr. Dan M. Young, D.N., has been practicing the science of naprapathy for the past seven years. He received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Illinois in 1974, master of science degree from Bernadean University and doctor of naprapathy degree from the Chicago National College of Naprapathy in 1979. For the past five years Dr. Young has been a member of the faculty of the above college. He is also a member of the American Naprapathic Assn., and founder and owner of the Libertyville Naprapathic Clinic.

They types of approaches to orthopedic disorders used at the Libertyville Naprapathic Clinic include electrotherapy, ultrasound, traction, and orthopedic video tapes, in addition to the naprapathic manipulation.

The demands of a growing practice necessitated the addition of Dr. Ken Hansen, D.N., three years ago. The Libertyville Naprapathic Clinic now employs, in addition to Drs. Young and Hansen, Dr. Szalowski, Dr. Bledsoe, and various interns from the naprapathic college.

With demands for increasing space, the Libertyville Naprapathic Clinic will be moving to 283 Peterson Rd., Libertyville, in the new Peterson Commons Plaza, on June 2.

Suntan Can Result In Problems Later

Although many people look forward to summertime and the warm feeling of sunshine on their skin, the healthy glow of a suntan can lead later to a host of problems: dryness, wrinkles, liver spots and skin cancer.

More than 400,000 cases of skin cancer are diagnosed each year. About 7,400 deaths result annually.

Victory Hospital's oncology (cancer) unit is sponsoring its second free skin cancer screening on Wednesday, May 28, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Appointments can be made by calling (312) 360-4246.

During last year's skin cancer screening, Victory's physicians identified a number of suspicious lesions and individuals were referred to their own doctors for follow-up.

People with very fair complexions and light (blue, green or grey) are most prone to overexposure to the sun and skin cancer. But anyone who spends a great deal of time in the sun is at risk.

There are several types of skin cancer. Some are easily treated. Some have poorer prognoses.

The best precaution is to avoid overexposure. Staying out of the sun when it is at its most intense—between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. is advisable. And sun worshippers should use a sunscreen lotion, cream or sun block. It should be used when persons are out of doors for an extended period, whether jogging, boating, gardening or swimming.

But no sunscreen gives total protection. And even the darkest black skin is not immune to skin cancer or the sun's aging effects. And ultraviolet rays have a cumulative effect. So the bronze glow prized so highly by those in their younger years can result in sagging, wrinkled skin later, and can increase the chances of developing skin cancer.

As the American Cancer Society warns, if you fry now, you'll pay later.

New Program Reduces Cancer Risk

"Everything causes cancer!"
"I love having a suntan. There's no way something as healthy as the sun can give you cancer!"

"I've been a smoker for 15 years. It's too late for me to do anything to avoid lung cancer."

These statements about cancer have two things in common: First, they reflect an attitude of helplessness regarding cancer prevention and, second, they are all incorrect. Unfortunately, though, this sense of inevitability is common, despite the many advances in the fight against cancer.

To dispel this mistaken sense of helplessness, the American Cancer Society has announced a new public education program, "Taking Control," which offers 10 simple steps people can take now to reduce their risk of getting cancer, and possibly prevent the disease.

"Taking Control" is one of our most significant programs to date because it represents the Society's new emphasis on cancer prevention," said Charles A. LeMaistre, M.D., the incoming president of the Society.

"Most scientists now believe that our daily habits—what we eat and drink, whether we smoke and how often we expose ourselves to the sun—determine to a great extent our risk of getting many cancers," he said. "All of these factors can be controlled easily. We have the power to lessen our chances of getting this disease."

"Taking Control" is the first ACS program to integrate all aspects of cancer prevention—diet, exercise and general health habits—into a program that can be adapted practically to one's lifestyle. It offers 10 steps—five habits to adopt and five to curtail—that have been proven through epidemiological studies and laboratory experiments to play a role in curtailing the development of certain cancers.

The five "protective factors" are practices that should be adopted; the "risk factors" are habits that should be curtailed or abandoned.

"We know that a third of all cancer is linked to cigarette smoking. And other cancers, particularly breast, prostate and colon, are related to diet," said Dr. LeMaistre. "By cutting out smoking and eating more of the foods that may inhibit cancer, you can do a lot to reduce your risk."

"Taking Control" offers these steps to reduce cancer risk:

Protective factors: 1. Increase consumption of fresh vegetables, especially those of the cabbage family, to inhibit cancer development and growth. In addition, vegetables will increase the intake of certain vitamins as well as provide increased dietary fiber.

2. Add more dietary fiber. High-fiber diets seem to reduce the risk of developing certain cancers, such as cancer of the breast, prostate and colon.

3. Increase intake of vitamin A. Cancers of the esophagus, larynx and lung may be avoided by increasing the intake of natural sources of this vitamin.

4. Add more foods rich in vitamin C. Citrus fruits and vegetables rich in vitamin C may protect against cancer of the stomach and esophagus.

5. Practice weight control. Obesity is linked to cancers of the uterus, gallbladder, breast and colon.

Risk factors: 6. Reduce the amount of dietary fat. A high-fat diet increases risk of developing breast, colon and prostate cancers.

7. Cut down on salt-cured, smoked and nitrite-cured foods. Moderation in the consumption of these foods is recommended, since they have been linked to cancers of the esophagus and stomach.

8. Stop cigarette smoking.

9. Go easy on alcohol. Drinking large amounts of alcohol increases the risk of liver cancer. And, heavy drinkers who smoke are at much greater risk for cancers of the mouth, throat, larynx and esophagus than nonsmokers.

10. Avoid overexposure to the sun. Reduce the risk of getting skin cancer by wearing protective clothing or by using a sun-screen.

The program will be offered by the Society's 3,242 local Units with special emphasis on workplace seminars, houses of worship and supermarkets. About 250,000 public education volunteers have been mobilized, all over the country, for this massive effort.

In addition to the printed material, videotape and slide presentations have been developed. A film using science fiction themes and special effects also has been produced.

"The material we've put together for this program has one purpose—to motivate people to adopt these practices," said John R. Seffrin, Ph.D., chairman of the Society's National Public Education Committee.

"We've been very successful in increasing the cure rate for patients who already have cancer," Dr. LeMaistre said. "Now we have the knowledge that will enable us to attack cancer before it starts. This is some of the best news about cancer we can offer the public. There's no magic potion to ward off cancer, but we are far from helpless."

Award KMH's McGinty

Kenosha Memorial Hospital President John McGinty has been selected as one of the health care industry's top young professionals by the American Hospital Association.

McGinty was cited for having displayed exceptional innovation, leadership, vision and organizational abilities. He was selected by a panel of experts from across the country. McGinty will be profiled in the 50th Anniversary Issue of "Hospitals" magazine.

McGinty came to Kenosha Memorial in 1977 and was appointed president and chief executive officer in 1979. McGinty is a graduate of Carthage College and received his master's degree in hospital administration from Xavier University in Cincinnati.

He is a Fellowship Candidate in the American College of Healthcare Executives and has recently received other state and national awards as an outstanding administrator.

Senior Club Meets

Avon "55" Senior Social Club meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, at Avon Twp. building, 433 E. Washington in Round Lake Park. Upcoming events include bowling, dancing, theater and all sorts of summer activities.

Fitness Experts Favor Aerobics

Many fitness experts sing the praises of aerobic exercise and its cardiovascular benefits, while those interested in shaping and toning swear by working with weights (resistive exercise). Now a new home gym, by the fitness pioneer who revolutionized the exercise world some 30 years ago, allows the user to combine both aerobic and resistive exercise to work every muscle group in the body.

It's called Ultra-Shaper. Almost invisible on a wall or in a doorway, it takes up only 10 square inches of space and performs every exercise done on every conceivable piece of exercise equipment costing many times more.

"We call this essential combination of resistive and aerobic exercise Musclaerobics," said Ultra-Shaper inventor Harold Zinkin. "It could be the most important term and the most important concept in the fitness world to date, and while they're built into the Ultra-Shaper, the principles of Musclaerobics are applicable to workouts in general."

In 1957, this award-winning body-builder and the state's first Mr. California (1941) made fitness history with his Universal Gym, the first of its kind in what was then an uncertain industry. Today, Universal equipment is in schools and fitness centers all over the world. It's been installed at the White House, even bolted to the decks of aircraft carriers.

Ultra-Shaper is Zinkin's sixth patent. Unlike other gyms, it provides the user with instant variable resistance. There's no stacking of weights or moving of pins to interrupt the workout. You just step away from the machine or adjust a simple manual control. An easy-to-read gauge shows what percentage of Ultra-Shaper's capacity you are using.

"Every part of the Ultra-Shaper is made of the finest materials, many from the aerospace industry," Zinkin said. "In tests, the polymer resistance systems performed flawlessly, with no failures in over a million mechanical repetitions."

The Ultra-Shaper is available in two models and comes with a 14-inch revolving multi-bar, a shoulder attachment for jogging and aerobics, and ankle strap for leg and hip exercises, and a 28-page manual to guide man, woman, child—even the advanced athlete—to exercise perfection. It carries a warranty, comes fully assembled and ready to install, and retails for $189.

For additional product information, plus a free guide on how to apply the principles of Musclaerobics to your current exercise program, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Zinkin Fitness International, 2377 W. Shaw, Suite 112A, Fresno, CA 93711.

Care Center Gives Variety

Imagine family health care and emergency room services at one facility closeby to home.

It has become reality in Lake County thanks to The Primary Care Family & Emergency Care Center, located in the Lakewood Medical Building in Libertyville.

The care center stresses its availability to the individual's time schedule. Open when patients need care hours are to 8 p.m. on weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Primary Care, besides its Libertyville office, also has offices at Rte. 41 & Delany in Gurnee and 915 Toft in Antioch.

Family health needs covered at Primary Care include: family practice; internal medicine; industrial medicine; urgent care; allergies; pediatrics; orthopedics and minor surgery.

Specialists are available through the practice when necessary.

The emergency phone number is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week and a doctor is always on call.

Primary Care Center also offers completing claim form, offering transportation services to the elderly and overall compassion.

A Man Of Many Roles

A Mundelein resident, Hinrichsen plays many roles at the hospital, moving from one department to another to offer his services.

Ill. Hospitals Offer Services To Seniors

Thanks to modern health care, people are living longer, healthier lives. As the percentage of older adults in the population increases, Illinois hospitals are serving senior citizens through a variety of specialized services.

Several Illinois hospitals have opened adult day care centers that help postpone or prevent institutionalization for elderly with special psychological needs. Two centers, operated by St. Mary's Hospital in Streator and Holy Cross Hospital in Chicago, combine professional supervision, with social, cultural, and rehabilitative activities. Clients participate in a variety of structured activities such as field trips and current-event discussions, but are also encouraged to maintain their independence.

Another Illinois hospital system, in conjunction with National Senior Citizens Month in May, is offering a program for children of aging parents. "As Parents Grow Older," sponsored by the Delnor Community Health System in Geneva, teaches participants to cope with the legal, financial, medical, and emotional problems people encounter when caring for an aging parent.

Hawthorn Place Offers Quick, Professional Care

Equipment to cope with medical emergencies coupled with faster outpatient themes are just two of the facets of Hawthorn Place Surgical Center in Libertyville.

Located on Hollister Drive, Hawthorn Place gives patient same-day outpatient surgery where "patients are people too," according to a Hawthorn brochure.

The center is designed to provide maximum outpatient safety and comfort while reducing medical costs.

The average length of stay at the facility is from three to four hours from time of admitting to discharge. Automatic transfers to area hospitals are available.

Surgical procedures performed at the center include: Dental & Oral; Ear, Nose and Throat; Podiatry; Plastic; Vascular; Gastrointestinal; Eye; Orthopedic; Pediatric; Urology and Gynecology.

The center features a nursing staff which provides patient with assistance during arrival, departure and answers questions.

The staff monitors medical and surgical care through a quality assurance process.

Handicaped people need to keep fit, too

Health and fitness programs are very popular these days.

A fitness program, in many instances can be pursued for many handicapped individuals.

Perhaps the term "physically challenged" is more appropriate. For many people, the wheelchair, orthopedic brace, or artificial limb is more than an ambulatory aid. Many physically challenged individuals use these special devices to aid in recreation and exercise.

Wheelchair sports such as nationally organized basketball leagues are very popular.

Individuals who wear a leg prosthesis (artificial limb) in good health may engage in various sports such as water and snow skiing, jogging, golf and tennis. The type and level of activity will be determined by the health and length of remaining limb.

Special terminal devices for the person that wears an artificial arm will allow the wearers to use the prosthesis for such sports as baseball, archery, bowling, golf and more.

Impossible To Escape Allergies

Travel and vacation time. Everybody welcomes it, but some travelers greet it with special glee.

They're the sniffing, snuffling, stuffy-nosed sufferers from hay fever and other afflictions brought on by allergies to airborne pollen, mold and similar nuisances.

For them, vacation time is really getting away—away from ragweed, a plant which produces the smallest, most annoying, most penetrating pollen in the United States.

But the problem isn't limited to ragweed. Since grass and trees, as well as plants, produce pollen, it's almost impossible to run away from all such allergens—especially on camping-trip vacations.

What's more, allergy-activating mold spores are in the air almost everywhere. Still, there's hope for the hay fevered traveler. These suggestions can help:

1. Consult your doctor. For those who suffer severely from hay fever or similar allergy-induced reactions, antihistamines or injections can be the most effective means of control.

2. Select your vacation locale with special regard for weather. The climate should be a temperate one, neither too hot nor too cold. Don't travel in hot, windy weather, when there will be much pollen in the air.

3. Avoid becoming overheated—or chilled. The right course is to keep cool, but not too cool. Excessive air conditioning, in the car or motel, may irritate your allergy, rather than soothe it.

4. Travel at a relaxed pace, and don't overdo. Fatigue can bring on a hay fever attack. Plan to travel no more than a comfortable distance each day, and don't try to do and see too much. You'll enjoy your vacation more, too.

Victory's Volunteers

Esther and Tony Vider represent Victory's 400 volunteers who donate many hours of service for our patients.

Helping Others A Way Of Life For Volunteers

Esther and Tony Vider are two volunteers who, like so many people at Victory Hospital, make helping others a way of life. They come to Victory because they truly care about the patients and families who turn to this hospital for their health needs.

Esther spends her time at Victory delivering flowers to patients and mending and making items in the sewing unit. Tony is involved with the Emergency department, and transports patients, runs errands for the staff and directs people who come through the area. Tony has been with the department for six years, and is "always impressed with the kind and pleasant staff" he has been helping for so long.

Tony and Esther are among the 400 volunteers who gave more than 48 thousand hours of time to Victory in 1985. They are also members of the Auxiliary, which raised fifty-five thousand dollars last year to benefit our patients. The Auxiliary puts service to the hospital first, but enthusiastically supports bake sales, the Gift Shop, holiday bazaars and other money-generating events.

Volunteering "works" at Victory because there are so many different kinds of jobs available for volunteers. It works because volunteering gets to the heart of our basic human needs: to feel wanted and useful, and to know that life has a purpose and meaning.

The desire to volunteer is rooted deeply in our American heritage. People in this country still feel the obligation to help each other. Yesterday's volunteers gathered to raise a barn or to harvest a neighbor's crops. Today's volunteers at Victory see that patients get their newspapers, flowers or mail. They talk to them, feed them, laugh and cry with them and accompany them wherever they have to go throughout the hospital.

They're volunteers. They're helping to make Victory one of the finest hospitals around. All of us are deeply grateful for the jobs they do.

If you would like to become a Victory Hospital Volunteer call 360-4127.

Expectant Mothers Have Special Needs

"Have another helping, dear. Remember, you're eating for two now!" Almost every new mom-to-be has likely heard that line at least once since she became pregnant. But twice as much to eat is not necessarily twice as healthy.

An expectant mother does have special nutritional needs. Research demonstrates that eating a high quality diet while pregnant has many benefits for both mother and baby.

Good Shepherd Hospital now offers a class in Prenatal Nutrition. Led by a registered dietitian, this class will help participants plan a high quality, and interesting, diet for pregnancy and beyond.

The class will be held on Thursday, May 15, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the hospital. The class will cover special nutrient needs, advantages of a high quality diet, recommendations for weight control, and coping with discomforts such as nausea and heartburn.

You will learn how to evaluate your own diet and plan a diet to meet your individual needs. The fee for the program is $10. If you would like further information, or to register, please call Good Shepherd Hospital at (312) 381-9353.

To Discuss Heart Disease

Cardiologists from the Medical Staff of Good Shepherd Hospital will discuss "Heart Disease: Could It Be Me?", at a program to be held at the hospital on Saturday, May 31.

The physicians will address the function of the heart, what can go wrong, and how various problems can be treated. They will also talk about what can be done to prevent heart disease.

A cardiac risk screening will also be offered for $15 for persons who are interested in this laboratory test. The blood test is designed to aid in identifying your risk for cardiovascular disease by determining levels of cholesterol, triglycerides, high density and low density lipoproteins.

The screening will begin at 7:30 a.m. A buffet breakfast will be served at 8 a.m. The speakers will begin at 9 a.m. Fee for the program and breakfast (not including the cardiac risk screen) is $5. Reservations are required. There are some specific instructions for having the blood test. Please call Good Shepherd Hospital at 381-9353 for further information and reservations.

Nurses Get Corsages

As part of Nurses Day, May 6, every nurse at Saint Therese Medical Center in Waukegan was presented with a corsage, compliments of the center's administration. Linda Geisler, director of nursing, presented the flowers along with a card thanking the nurses for their hard work and dedication to their patients and to the medical center.

All employees of the center received a free dessert in the cafeteria to celebrate with the nurses.

Hospital To Deliver Fruit To Patients

Patients entering Saint Therese Medical Center, Waukegan, will find a special surprise in store for them beginning in May.

According to Al Moyer, director of the center's food and nutritional services, "A small wicker basket filled with assorted fresh fruits will be delivered to patients the day they are admitted to Saint Therese Medical Center. A greeting card from the Saint Therese Family wishing them well will be tucked in each basket.

According to Moyer, Saint Therese is the first and only area hospital to initiate this service to welcome patients.

"One of the essentials to good health and a speedy recovery is nutritional food, and fresh fruit represents one of the basic food groups," he pointed out. "In those cases where the patient may be on a special diet which prohibits fresh fruits, the basket can be given to the patient's family."

Providing Care For Indigent Expensive

The cost of caring for the medically indigent in Illinois hospitals is nearing $400 million a year, according to the Illinois Hospital Assn.'s Task Force on Indigent Care in a report scheduled for release this month.

Not only is the charity care and bad debt burden greater today than in the past, but Illinois hospitals are finding it more difficult than ever before to manage this burden. The intensely competitive environment with its new provider-payer relationships and emphasis on cost containment has reduced hospitals' ability to absorb indigent care losses.

The task force was organized in May 1985 to identify the indigent care problem in Illinois, pinpoint fair and mechanically sound solutions to uncompensated care, and recommend possible sources of funding.

In researching health care funding for the poor, the task force discovered a complex problem with no clear solutions. In order to profile specific types of patients most likely to be medically indigent, the task force surveyed hospital patient accounts that were determined to be charity care or uncollectible. The survey results showed no typical indigent patient but rather a range of people, including the chronically poor, the underinsured, and the temporarily unemployed.

Hospital Day Draws State Legislators

More than 1,000 hospital representatives from approximately 100 Illinois hospitals last month gathered in Springfield for Hospital Day 1986, the Illinois Hospital Assn.'s annual hospital lobbying day. Those hospital administrators, trustees, staff, and volunteers participated in Hospital Day in order to express health care concerns to their legislators, including the need to reform Illinois' tort system.

Hospital Day drew government officials and legislators from around the state and across party lines. Addressing the crowd were Gov. Thompson's Chief of Staff James R. Reilly, State Treasurer James H. Donnewald, Senate Majority Leader Philip J. Rock (D-Oak Park), House Minority Leader Lee A. Daniels (R-Elmhurst), Sen. Aldo A. DeAngelis (R-Chicago Heights), and Sen.

Vince Demuzio (D-Carlinville).

Speaking for the governor, Reilly told hospital representatives that the liability insurance crisis must be solved. The inability to attain affordable liability insurance affects hospitals, cities, and businesses, he said, but it is still going to take a "massive lobbying effort" to achieve meaningful tort reform.

Hospital volunteers from throughout the state attended Hospital Day and heard the governor's chief of staff read a special proclamation designating April 22, 1986, Volunteer Recognition/Hospital Day. After Reilly delivered the proclamation, 2,000 helium-filled balloons were released at the Capitol. Each balloon represented 100 of the 200,000 hospital volunteers in Illinois.

New Scanner In Use At Chicago Medical School

One of the latest advances in radiologic technology is now being used with considerable success by the Robert R. McCormick Clinics at the University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School.

According to Walid A. Hindo, M.D., chairman of the Dept. of Radiology, the device, known as the Magnetic Resonance Imager, is a revolutionary step forward in that it exposes the internal tissue structure of the body as no equipment has before...and does it without any radiation or use of x-rays.

It is painless, completely safe, has no apparent side effects (headaches, nausea) and can be completed within 30 minutes to an hour on an outpatient basis.

"In some cases this machine is preferable to CT scanning as a state-of-the-art method of giving us more important, useable information than ever before, particularly with respect to the brain and the back," Hindo says.

In fact, he says, some radiologists feel that the development of the MRI ranks in significance with the invention of the x-ray machine a century ago.

The manner in which the machine operates isn't that hard to understand. Using a giant magnet, the imaging device generates a high strength series of magnetic fields that cause the body's atoms to vibrate and, in essence, become miniature radio transmitters.

A computer collects these signals and transforms them into clear cross-sectional images of the body's internal tissues and organs, allowing doctors to spot tumors without the use of hazardous radiation.

"It is a highly advanced imaging technique," says Hindo, "because it can see with clarity through the thickest of bone structure without using dyes or other substances which, if introduced into the body, can cause unpleasant side effects."

Moreover, and unlike the CT scanner, which can obtain only cross-sectional images, the MRI produces highly detailed pictures of body tissues in multiple planes.

Among the numerous potential usages of MRI are: to differentiate between abnormal and normal breast tissue, and malignant and non-malignant lung tissue; diagnosis of neurological disorders (including strokes, tumors, multiple sclerosis and brain edema); detection of spinal cord problems; identification of slipped discs and aneurysms; and remarkable reproduction and visualization of specific chambers of the heart.

Through its ability to develop images in any sectional plane and state of enlargement, MRI is also often used to evaluate the extent of orthopedic injuries and, possibly, even the effect of drugs, such as lithium or manic-depressive illness.

Hindo indicates that the MRI services offered by the Robert R. McCormick Clinics include both the scanning and professional interpretation. Physicians referring patients will not lose contact with their patient and are, in fact, encouraged to follow through all aspects of MRI evaluation.

Sharon Weinstein, clinics administrator, has invited physicians to come over for a first-hand demonstration. In fact, she says, the clinics, located at 3333 Green Bay Rd. (just south of the Buckley Rd. (Rte. 137) intersection), is offering an introductory imaging charge of only $500 per single view scan.

"So far," she says "everyone who has used the equipment is highly impressed with its accuracy, safety and versatility. It really is a big step forward in medical technology and our prices are among the lowest in the area."

Technician Monitors Results

A technician at the Robert R. McCormick Clinics monitors the results of a scan on the Magnetic Resonance Imager, which is being used by the University of Health Sciences / The Chicago Medical School, with great success.

Gamefield Program Helps Maintain Health

Once upon a time, hospitals were places where you went to get well when you were sick or injured. The facilities were simple: there were patient rooms, operating rooms, doctors' offices, and testing rooms.

Today, hospitals have become just one among many facilities and services offered by sprawling medical centers.

Rather than simply working to restore health, hospitals today are putting as much emphasis on maintaining good health and preventing injury and illness.

St. Therese Medical Center of Waukegan has joined with the National Fitness Campaign to sponsor the opening of nine "Gamefield Fitness Courses" throughout northern Lake County as part of its commitment to encourage people to get proper exercise and conditioning.

The program was built around an award-winning outdoor fitness facility and curriculum designed by the Stanford University Heart Disease Prevention Center and the Arizona Heart Institute. It is funded by corporations who, through the National Fitness Campaign, make grants available to partners in public schools, parks, and community organizations.

Each Gamefield features up to 20 exercise stations that offer different levels of participation for beginning, intermediate, and advanced use of each system.

Throughout the nation, more than 5,000 of the Gamefield systems are being put into use.

In northern Lake County, the fitness courses are being installed at the College of Lake County, Beulah Park School in Zion, Antioch Community High School, the Village of Round Lake Park, Antioch Parks and Recreation Dept., Lake Villa School Dist. 41, Grayslake High School, North Chicago High School, and the Manchester Knolls Cooperative in North Chicago.

St. Therese Medical Center President Nora O'Malley said, "This must tell people that health care leaders are concerned with wellness and good physical conditioning. We at St. Therese are proud to be a part of the Gamefields Fitness Course Program and compliment our partners in providing these nine facilities for the improved good health of everyone who wishes to take advantage of them."

As medical costs continue to rise, the maintenance of good health becomes more important to everyone. Certainly, the new emphasis that hospitals are putting on health maintenance can only serve to work to the benefit of everyone.

May 16-18 Health Fair At Lakehurst Mall

Health care is fastly becoming one of the most important consumer products on the market. Over 15 area hospitals and health care groups will show their ongoing attention to the public's demand as they gather for the May 16-18 health fair at Lakehurst Mall.

The exhibitors will provide free information and tests on health related issues like cardiac fitness, nutrition, eye care, body fat proportions, stress and proper exercise techniques.

Displays like Med Star, an emergency medical helicopter, will also introduce the public to the latest in medical technology. The emergency aircraft will land and be open for exhibit Saturday and Sunday on Lakehurst's southwest parking lot. In addition, an ambulance and home health care van will be displaced at center court throughout the weekend.

The American Red Cross has scheduled a blood drive for 12:30-5:30 p.m. on Sunday in the Lakehurst Community Room. Interested donors can preregister for the blood drive at the information center.

Other weekend activities include aerobic dance and exercise presentations at 1 and 3 p.m. on Friday-Sunday, at center court.

Health fair participants include: Victory Memorial Hospital, Maves Chiropractic Clinic, Veteran's Administration Medical Center, Lake County Health Dept., Great Lakes Naval Hospital, St. Therese Medical Center, Club Nautilus, Eye Care Center, Lions Club, Vitamin World, Abbott Laboratories, American International Hospital, Bridge House, American Vision Center, American Red Cross, Rollene Pools and Spas, and Reiki Radiance Center.

BAXTER TRAVENOL

Proud to be part of the growth in Lake County

Baxter Travenol Laboratories, Inc., began operations in the north suburban area more than fifty years ago. With a long history of commitment to leadership in health care, the company took a major step toward that end in 1985 by merging with American Hospital Supply Corporation, our neighbor in Evanston. In the process, we created the premier health care company with sales of more than $5 billion a year and with many strategic strengths.

Baxter Travenol produces a wide range of life-saving health care products and related services, delivering the benefits of modern technology at the least possible cost. Innovative, quality products are used in a variety of settings, including hospitals, clinical laboratories, dialysis centers, blood banks and the home by physicians, surgeons, nurses, technicians, and increasingly, patients themselves.

Today, Baxter Travenol, headquartered in Deerfield, serves millions of patients in more than 100 countries. We employ over 11,000 people from the north suburbs and are proud to call this community home.

File Plans For New Markets

MidCon Corp., a subsidiary of Occidental Petroleum Corp. has filed plans to market and transport natural gas through Lake County to new markets in Wisconsin.

Three MidCon units, including a new interstate pipeline, would be involved in a 10-year agreement with Wisconsin Natural Gas Company, Racine, for the sale on an interruptible basis of up to 90,000 million British thermal units (MMBtus)—approximately 90 million cubic feet—of natural gas daily.

Under the agreement, two MidCon interstate pipelines would transport gas from various U.S. producing areas to a delivery point in Wisconsin. In addition, MidCon Marketing will assist Wisconsin Natural in locating and purchasing the gas to be transported.

Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, MidCon's largest pipeline unit, would move the gas to Lake County, where it would interconnect with a proposed new MidCon line, Moraine Pipeline Company, near Waukegan. Moraine would then transport the gas to an interconnection with Wisconsin Natural in Kenosha County.

In a filing made with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), Moraine Pipeline and related facilities are estimated to cost approximately $6.5 million; construction could be completed within six months after work begins.

Wisconsin Natural will build approximately 11 miles of distribution facilities to carry the gas from the delivery point to its existing gas distribution system.

Moraine filed its proposal under new FERC regulations providing for expedited approval procedures that would require the line to be an open access transporter of natural gas.

In a separate filing made with the FERC, Natural Gas Pipeline asked for approval to transport gas from producing areas to Moraine Pipeline under traditional Natural Gas Act Section 7 (c) authority.

MidCon Corp. operates about 28,000 miles of wholly and jointly owned pipelines extending from Southwest, Gulf Coast and Rocky Mountain areas to the Upper Midwest; along the Gulf South from Texas to Florida; and within the state of Texas.

Wisconsin Natural Gas, a subsidiary of the Wisconsin Electric Power Company, serves some 230,000 consumers in an eight-county area of southeast Wisconsin and the Appleton-Neenah-Menasha area.

Sheriff To Observe Police Week

The Lake County Sheriff's Police will be observing National Police Week and Peace Officer's Memorial Day, May 15, Lake County Sheriff Robert H. Babcox announced.

"The annual observance is to bring community deserved recognition to those in law enforcement," Babcox said.

"Traditionally, police shoulder the responsibility to serve and protect," Babcox said, "the law enforcement shield stands for devotion to duty and the pursuit of justice."

"One deputy, Gary Murphy was fatally shot in June 1976," Babcox said, "he along with other law enforcement officers nationwide have made the supreme sacrifice."

"Our gratitude towards these dedicated people should be of continued support and to honor the memory of those who have died in the line of duty," Babcox concluded.

Harbor Ridge Country Club in Antioch is looking for golfers for its Thursday morning ladies league. No handicap is required. League starts June 5 and plays through Sept. 4. Anyone wishing to join the league should call (312) 395-6200.

Mason Takes Out Petitions

Don Mason still intends to run against Lake County Sheriff Robert (Mickey) Babcox in the November election as a third party candidate.

After he got his petition papers this week (he must get 8,863 signatures) he said that he still thinks it's unfair that he can't run against Babcox by himself as an independent.

By election law he must form a third party slate.

Mason said that he has found a lot of people willing to campaign for his slate especially in Dist. 4.

"That should be a hot race," he said.

He added that he will not slate a candidate to run against Lake County Clerk Linda Hess.

"She's highly qualified. She's been a lamb in a lion's den and I wouldn't want to take any votes away from her and help her opposition Donna Mae Litwiler and let Babcox add control of that county office to the others he has," Mason said.

He also said that in talking to people, he is convinced that Sybil Yastrow is the best candidate for Lake County School Supt.

He claims he does not need a full slate since a supreme court decision on that matter.

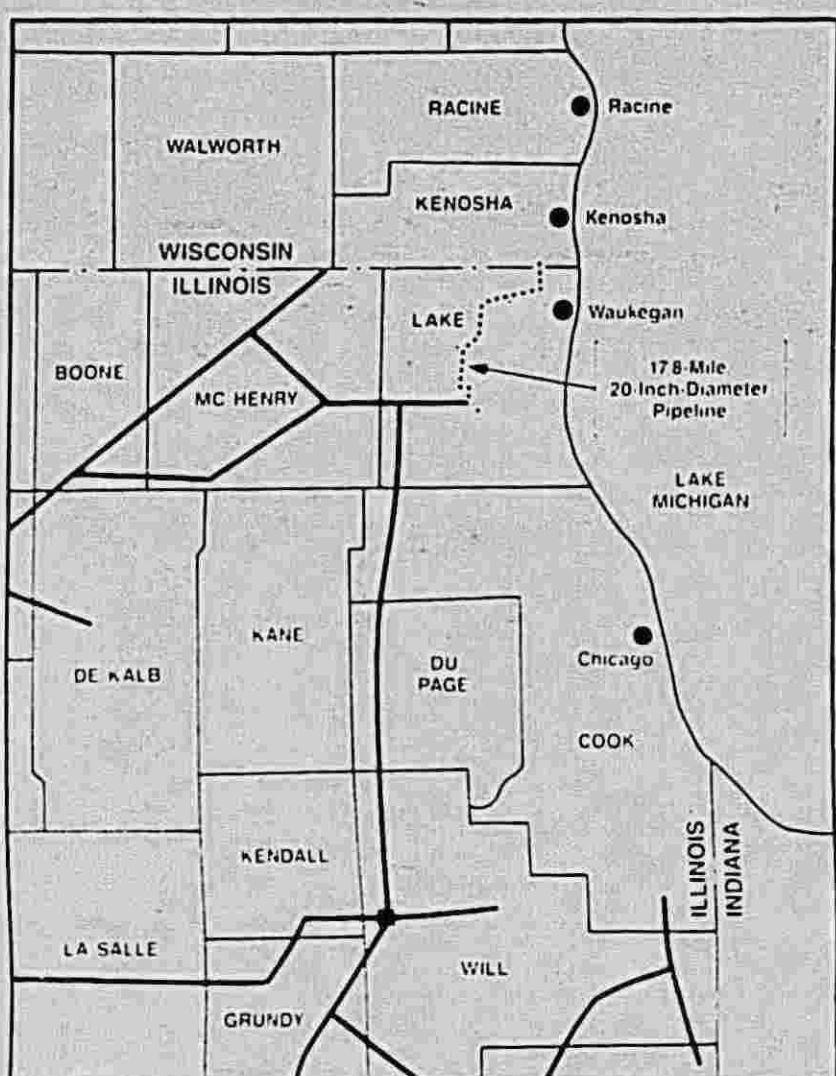

He says that he will have a third party slate and all the signatures he needs.

I just need 20 people to get 500 signatures each over a 90-day period," he added.

Mason remarked that a win by Adlai Stevenson in his lawsuit concerning independent candidate filing dates would really be in his (Mason's) favor.

Next Week's Horoscope

BY SALOME

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) A crossroads lies ahead. Whichever way you choose to go, the important thing is to get moving. Delay gains you nothing. New experiences await in either direction.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Expect a personal matter to take up much of your time. Wind up important business and social situations to leave yourself free to handle newly pressing demands.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) A romantic suggestion should light up the darker corners of your life at this time. Resist the temptation to play guessing games. Show your suitor how you really feel.

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) Careful. That tendency to look for problems is threatening your current peace of mind. Remember the old adage: if it's not broken, don't fix it.

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) Curiosity is good for you big, beautiful cats who will need to scratch beneath the surface of a new friend's cover story before making any social or business commitment.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Carrying a grudge is a burden that can wear down an important friendship. Seek a reconciliation while you still have time to save the relationship.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Tidy up loose ends while the pressure has eased. Getting minor matters out of the way now allows you to spend more time on major projects later.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Take more time to look over the possibilities at hand or risk overlooking something that might have proven important to your future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) A misunderstanding is possible, but avoidable. Use diplomacy in handling the situation. Provoking arguments can lead to new problems.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Closing the barn door after the horse has fled isn't the way to keep a relationship stable. Start solving your mutual problems now before it's too late.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Relationships need tender, loving care. It's easy to bruise egos, and before you know it, either she goes or he goes out of your life. Be careful.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Compliments are nice, but could be compromising. Exercise caution. Be careful you don't get caught on a hook baited with flattery.
